PARIS, Nov. 26.—(Friday)—French newspapers today printed articles protesting against a new violent anti-French campaign which flamed up in Italy yesterday. It was feared the Italian campaign would further strain relations between the two countries.

The newspapers object to an attack in the newspaper Giornale d'Italia upon Cesar Campinchi, French minister of the navy, by Virginia Gayda, Giornale's firebrand and regarded as Premier Mussolini's spokesman. Gayda charged that Campinchi, in a speech to the crew of the steamer General Bonaparte on Oct. 23, made the following statement:

"You know as I know the contempt in which we hold everything Italian. War against Italy not only is fatally bound to come but is necessary and it will be a victorious war. We are determined to defend Corsica against any Italian aggression and we will defend it with all the means at our disposal. Corsica, in the coming war, will be a decisive element of victory. From Corsica an offensive will be launched which will bring Fascism to its knees. What I can tell you is that we will have the skin of Fascism."

Denies Making Statement.

Campinchi denied he had made any such speech. Gayda, he added invented the accusation out of whole cloth.

It was reported here that the French embassy at Rome is being heavily guarded by Italian police against possible attack as a result of the episode.

Gayda in his article went so far as to invite France to start a war. He warned that Italy was ready to accept any such challenge.

Gayda said that Campinchi's words must be considered "not only the ravings of a sectarian madman with criminal leanings" but also as a direct expression of French official thought. The writer continued:

"With his filthy prose, worthy only of a meeting of drunkards, Campinchi, renegade Corsican, evidently was joking, but in his joke is the red gleam of blood. His joke resounds with the lurid forewarning of a plot being hatched by France, who loves to guzzle at the verbose banquets of peace, against the safety of Europe and aiming at a general massacre.

Calls Campinchi a Renegade.

"The renegade Corsican, Campinchi, who has lost in Paris political slums the sense of the pure air of his native island and the pride of his people, knows that Italian aggression on Corsica is a pure invention. It is one of the many pretexts with which the fire raising firemen of the Popular Front would create an alibi for their past and present misdeeds.

"Italy does not threaten any one and vainly, apart from his gratuitous accusations, would the French navy minister try to adduce any document of proof to the contrary.

"He has informed the whole of Europe of the aggressive intentions of the French Popular Front. Once again Europe and President Roosevelt, who loves to criticize authoritarian régimes for their supposed aggressiveness, are informed, in the name of the French Popular Front, which is the half witted servant of Russian communism, that aggression is being plotted by Fascist Italy, and that at the same time the most tremendous war humanity has ever seen is being prepared.

"Italy Accepts Challenge."

"Campinchi should hold his tongue in leash before it is too late. His boasts are beginning to become provocative and intolerable. He should know the skin of Fascism cannot be had even at a very dear price, for it is exceptionally tough. Let Campinchi and his crew come forward and attempt a trial of strength. They will receive as they deserve.

"Campinchi challenges Italy. Italy

Deming, N. M., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two young tenderfeet, posing as cowboys, robbed a train with blazing guns in typical old wild west fashion on a New Mexico desert today, but enraged passengers overpowered and captured them after W. L. Smith, a trainman, was shot to death.

Severely beaten and lashed to seats of the westbound Apache of the Rock Island and Southern Pacific [which left Chicago at 10:30 a. m. yesterday], the captives were turned over to officers at Hachita, N. M., cattle town on the Mexican border, and brought to Deming. They identified themselves as Henry Lorenz, 22 years old, of Manitowoc, Wis., and Harry Dwyer, 27, of Canada.

One shot smashed a passenger's watch and a second grazed another man's clothing, but none of the passengers was injured.

Typical Eastern Cowboys.

The robbers were described as typical dude cowboys, elaborately dressed in costumes of the cow country, but neither of them was able to ride a horse or shoot a gun properly. They apparently got all their cowhand training in Brooklyn and other eastern cities.

The two boarded the train at El Paso at midnight. A mile east of Mount Riley, near the Mexican border, one of the gunmen went to the first chair car, drew a revolver and ordered Conductor W. M. Holloway to go to the end of the car, where the second robber had covered passengers with a pistol.

Jim Velsir of El Paso, a brakeman, entered and was forced to join the conductor.

Conductor Describes Encounter.

"The fellow pulled the gun on me when I came into the coach," Conductor Holloway said afterward. "I thought he was drunk. I tried to kid him out of it. I didn't think it was a holdup, and besides, I was afraid that gun was going off when that amateur's hands started shaking.

"'Quit your kidding,' I told him.

"The robber said he wasn't kidding and shoved the gun against my stomach and said it was a holdup. He told me to raise my hands and backed me into the rear end of the car.

"When he got me into the rear of the car a woman stepped out of the dressing room. The bandit's hands were already shaking, and when he saw the woman he darn near jumped out of his skin. He didn't know anything about handling a gun.

"Dressed Fit to Kill."

"I never saw the other robber until the first one pulled a gun on me. Both of them were dressed fit to kill. It was easy to see that they were tenderfeet."

Because S. Webb, a colored train service mechanic from El Paso, was slow in raising his hands one of the bandits fired. The bullet grazed the right side of his lether jacket.

A thick gold watch saved José A. Rodriguez of El Paso. When he was slow in taking out his watch the robber fired and the bullet struck the watch case.

"The train lurched and the bandit thought I was making a move to disarm him," Rodriguez related. "He fired at me. The bullet thudded against my hip. I thought I was gone. But the bullet hit my watch. It was damaged beyond repair, but I was unhurt."

Begins Robbing Passengers.

Then, while one of the robbers covered the trainmen and passengers, his companion started back through the train and began taking money and valuables from the 150 on board. To give emphasis to his commands, he fired his pistol several times. Brakeman Velsir was ordered to signal the train to stop.

When the robbers attempted to leave the front coach Trainman Smith grappled with Lorenz. As Dwyer raced up the aile to his aid, Webb stuck out his foot and brought Dwyer smashing to the floor, his head striking a seat.

K. C. Moon, another trainman, joined Smith in an attack on Lorenz, and passengers swarmed into the fray.

In the scuffle Lorenz's gun went off and Smith fell, fatally wounded. He died as the train was entering Arizona.

Both gunmen were beaten into sub-

HITLER AID GREETED ON ARRIVAL IN U. S. BY PICKET PROTEST

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Sixty policemen held back 100 pickets, opposed to Nazism and Hitler, when the North German Lloyd liner Europa was docked today with Capt. Fritz Wiedemann and Princess Chlodwig Hohenlohe-Schillingsfuerst among the most notable passengers.

Capt. Wiedemann was Corp. Adolf Hitler's commander in the world war. Now he is one of the three personal adjutants of Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The pickets protested his coming with banners and signs, but only four were allowed to cross the street to march outside the pier.

The captain, a tall man of Prussian military bearing, said he came here with Mrs. Wiedemann chiefly because their daughter, Anna Marie, 18 years old, gave such glowing accounts of the United States after a visit last summer. He wanted to see for himself whether her stories were true. "I see no prospect for war," he said when reporters asked him about conditions in Europe.

LOSSES MOUNT IN TAVERN OF MR. CAMPOBASSO

John Campobasso was composedly tending his bar at 3847 North Cicero avenue last night. A customer entered and asked for wine. He got it.

After the drink, the customer dug deep into a pocket and brought forth 9 cents. He tendered it, declaring it the outside limit of his resource. Mr. Campobasso's composure left him. He argued. He spoke a bit loud.

The customer dug into another pocket and took out a nickel plated pistol. Mr. Campobasso, casting composure to the winds, reached behind him picked up a bottle, and broke it over his customer's head.

The police found the customer, Edwin Zager, a machinist, 27 years old, in need of a patch or two. They also found Mr. Campobasso in an embittered mood.

"Why," yelped Mr. Campobasso, "why couldn't I have picked up a beer bottle instead of port wine?"

Hunters Rout Cracksmen at Stolen Safe in Woods

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Two hunters carrying shotguns came upon five men grouped around a large safe which they were attacking with sledge hammers in the woods near Livingston, N. J., today. The surprised cracksmen faded away and the hunters telephoned to police, who found $400 intact in the safe.

Thanksgiving Auto Massacre Costs 6 Lives

Six persons were killed and seventeen were injured in Thanksgiving day automobile accidents yesterday and last night. One of those killed was a hit and run car victim. The more spectacular accidents were:

1. A young mother and father were killed and two other persons were injured in a collision in Highland Park. A baby boy, however, miraculously escaped without even a bruise.

2. A boy 6 years old and a woman, 60, were killed in a crash in Lyons. Nine other persons were hurt, several seriously.

3. Five persons were injured when their automobile was crushed by a Rapid Transit lines train at Kedzie and Eastwood avenues.

Gardener and Wife Die.

The victims of the Highland Park accident were Arthur Orsi, 27 years old, 1200 Deerfield road, Highland Park, a landscape gardener, and his wife, Lucille, 25. With their son, Roland, 2 years old, and Mrs. Orsi's brother, Angelo Orlandi, 2222 Ohio street, they were driving east in Deerfield avenue when, at Central avenue, their car collided head on with one driven west by Harry Momberg, of Rockford, Ill. Orlandi and Momberg were slightly injured. The latter was arrested on a charge of driving while drunk.

The Lyons accident occurred earlier in the day and involved a car driven by Frank Koncel, 19, 2448 South Spaulding avenue, and one driven by Joseph Sieffert of La Salle, Ill., a cheese broker. In Koncel's car were his mother, Mrs. Emilie Koncel, and his sisters, Emilie and Mildred. Sieffert's wife, Elizabeth, and six children, William, 6 years old, Thomas, 8, Robert, 4, Shirley, 10, Donald, 2, and Carroll Ann, seven months old, were with him. The cars crashed at 47th street and Joliet road and Mrs. Koncel and William Sieffert were killed. Koncel was held by the Lyons police for the inquest today.

Pinned Against "L" Platform.

The "L"-automobile accident occurred when a south bound automobile driven by Harry Taggart, 1226 Wilson avenue, was pinned against the side of the Kedzie avenue platform of the Ravenswood branch by a west bound two-car train. Taggart was cut, as were his wife, Rose, and their daughter Marylin, 18 months old. George Keevil, 67, and his wife, Mary, of 5559 Henderson avenue, were more severely hurt. All were taken to the Montrose Avenue hospital.

An unidentified man, about 58 years old, was killed last night by a hit and run car at Ashland avenue and 75th street.

Harold Coughlin, 22 years old, 2627 Farragut avenue, was killed, and Evelyn Newberg, 17 years old, 5218 North Paulina street, was injured when they were struck by an automobile in front of 2607 Foster avenue. The driver, John Nitlasch, 5009 North Winchester avenue, was held.

Hit-Run Victim Dies.

William Kendrick, 63 years old, 3039 Washington boulevard, struck by a hit and run car at Elm street and Lake Shore drive on Monday, died of his injuries in the Henrotin hospital last night.

John Conlin, 38 years old, of Milwaukee, died yesterday in the Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines, of injuries suffered in a crash at Mannheim road and Touhy avenue on Wednesday.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 970 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 731 were killed in Chicago, where 20,664 were injured in the same period.

$5,000,000 British Baby Is Born; Ends Peerage Tangle

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The birth tonight of a daughter of the late fourth earl of Londesborough ended an almost unprecedented situation in the history of the British peerage and allowed three authoritative annals of peerage to go to press after months of delay. Lady Londesborough, who is 34 years old, gave birth to the child—her first—seven months after the earl died of pneumonia. Since the baby is a girl the 50 year old earldom becomes extinct. She inherits almost the whole of her father's fortune of nearly $5,000,000.

REMEMBER HIM? SURE, ASSERTS BELLHOP; HE PUTS ICE IN HIS BEER!

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Because Thomas A. Twomey ordered his beer with ice in it—not around it—he so surprised a Miami bellboy that the boy never will forget him. Twomey is being sued for divorce by Mrs. Anna Schalk Twomey, niece of Jacob Ruppert, wealthy brewer and owner of the New York Yankees ball club.

According to her suit in Supreme court here and suppported by an affidavit of Joe Langley, the Miami bellboy, Twomey passed three weeks in Miami in company with Ellen Rainey, a singer who is named corespondent. Langley identified a picture of Miss Rainey and said he never could forget Twomey because of the ice in his beer. Twomey denies the allegations.

John Crilly, an unmarried citizen of 30 years, dropped in on the Englewood police yesterday afternoon. He was looking for his clothes. He had heard they were there. Also $12 that had been in them.

Mr. Crilly was a little cold in his borrowed coat and milkman's overalls. He had a grievance. And his feet hurt.

The police, who had heard one side of the story early yesterday morning while it was still pretty chilly outdoors, grinned. They urged him to tell them more.

Story of Sudden Awakening.

"I was visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Broughton," said Mr. Crilly. "They live at 6755 South May street. I had a few drinks and I lay down to take a little rest. The first thing I know, some guy gives me a couple o' clouts, then kicks me on the shins. He kicks me on the knee. I decided I'd better get out before something serious happened. So I left."

"I could 'a' licked the guy," he added aggrievedly, "but he kept jumping on my bare feet."

Lieut. Thomas Breen immediately telephoned the man who brought Crilly's clothes, from overcoat to underwear, to the station. The man was James Broughton, who works nights as an oiler.

Guest Does a Rocket Act.

Mr. Broughton had told Lieut. Breen how he had started to work as usual at 3 a. m. but returned unexpectedly at 4 to find Mr. Crilly visiting. He said Mr. Crilly departed through a window, leaving his entire wardrobe behind. Watching the flight, Mr. Broughton said he saw Mr. Crilly board a passing milk wagon. He admitted that the rocketlike departure of the guest he had never seen before was inspired by the use of his brogans on Mr. Crilly's bare feet.

All this Lieut. Breen knew when he telephoned Mr. Broughton and Mr. Crilly listened. "That man is here," the lieutenant said.

"Keep him till I get there," Mr. Broughton answered.

Please Wait, Says Policeman.

Lieut. Breen told Crilly he would have to wait at the station until the man who had brought in his clothes could get there. About that time a photographer snapped a picture of Mr. Crilly in his borrowed clothes.

"That's a fine thing," grumbled the man whose feet hurt. "If that's the way you're going to act I won't identify any clothes. Anyway, I've got to go to a wedding."

He marched out as haughtily as a slight limp, a milkman's uniform, and a borrowed overcoat would let him.

HOUSE ECHOES TO HOLIDAY PLEA FOR TAX RELIEF

100 Members Hold Spirited Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—One hundred members of the house of representatives met today for ten minutes in an unprecedented holiday session, marked by several spirited interchanges, and then dashed off to their dinners.

An Illinois Republican, Ralph E. Church, was responsible for the Thanksgiving gathering of the house, the first within the memory of the oldest attachés on Capitol hill. Church insists that the house meet every day to consider legislation for the immediate reduction of taxes on business as a means of pulling the country out of the slump. Adjournment over Thanksgiving took unanimous consent, and Church opposed the move yesterday.

Fish Cites Unemployment.

Today's brief session gave Representative Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] an opportunity to make a plea that all members of congress, regardless of political faith, pull together to bring the nation out of the business recession. Fish declared that he was thankful on this day that the United States was at peace, but sorrowful unemployment was spreading.

"I am told that one million more people are unemployed now than two months ago, and that one million more are on part time jobs than two months ago," he said.

"On this Thanksgiving day we're in a serious depression. In nonpartisan spirit I ask Republicans and Democrats alike to work together to lead us out of this depression."

The first peace speech was made by Representative Jennings Randolph [D., W. Va.], who expressed his gratitude that the United States is not at war. "The opportunity has been given to our people and to congress to pursue a policy of peace," said Randolph.

Thankful for Peace.

"We must be more than a war-avoiding nation, we must be a peace-pursuing nation."

"I am thankful that so far we have been able to maintain the traditional American policy of peace, not trying to police other nations or engage in foreign blood feuds," put in Representative Fish dryly.

At this point, Majority Leader Sam Rayburn [D., Tex.], made a motion that the house adjourn until Monday. Church shouted an objection. He was immediately out shouted by the Democratic side, however, and Speaker William B. Bankhead [D., Ala.], rapping his gavel in an anvil chorus, finally announced above the hubbub that the Rayburn motion had carried. The members whooped and romped out of the chamber.

Eyes on Football Game.

The postponement of deliberations until Monday was a popular move, because the Army-Navy game will be played in Philadelphia on Saturday and virtually every able bodied congressman has snapped up his quota of tickets for the affair.

Shortly after the adjournment the White House announced that President Roosevelt's message on plans for speeding housing as a spur to business would be sent up Monday instead of Friday, as previously scheduled. The housing message, the White House secretariat said, would go to congress whether the President was still in Washington or whether he had gone on his fishing trip off the coast of Florida.

Tonight it appeared likely that when congress resumes work Monday the controversy over farm legislation again will take the spotlight. Administration leaders decided today to attempt to drive the farm bill through at the special session and then make such amendments as may be required next year.

Program to Face Attack.

In the house, where crops control legislation has been subjected to repeated attacks and thereby delayed, there was plenty of evidence that the program again would be under fire.

Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley was more hopeful of progress in the senate. He predicted that the bill would be passed some time next week.

The question of inflation and of tinkering with the currency is expected to be raised in the senate's consideration of the farm bill.

The senate agriculture committee favors giving the power to a single government agency to vary the value of the dollar as a means of controlling the prices of farm commodities. Power over the value of the dollar now is divided among various agencies and departments. One purpose of the administration senators is to bring the farm level to that of 1926.

Bridges Warns of Greenbacks.

Warning on the dangers of demands for paper money inflation came from Senator Bridges [R., N. H.], who requested immediate hearings on his bill to repeal the President's emergency power to issue three billion dollars in greenbacks.

In a letter to Senator Wagner [D., N. Y.], chairman of the banking and currency committee, Bridges declared that until the presidential authority is repealed the country is committed to the policy of greenbackism.

He added that although the President and most of congress agreed on the inadvisability of invoking the power now, their ideas might change, therefore sound fiscal policy requires its repeal. The power was contained in a rider to the agricultural adjustment act of 1933.

SINKING VESSEL WITH 17 ABOARD LOST IN STORM

Miami, Fla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The sinking British freighter Nollington Court with 17 seamen aboard was missing tonight. The steamer Chagres, which took off 18 seamen last night, lost sight of the vessel off Haiti in a rain squall and its fate was undetermined.

Tropical radio here picked up the following message from the Chagres' radio operator, who added he had not slept for 50 hours:

"Don't know what happened to steamship Nollington Court. We were standing by when rain squall came up. She had no lights and disappeared in three hours. We searched but not sighted."

The Chagres broadcast a warning that the freighter's deckload of heavy logs had been jettisoned and were a menace to navigation.

The Nollington Court, a 6,000 ton craft en route from Vancouver to Liverpool, struck a submerged object off Turks Island in the Bahamas Tuesday and tore a hole in her side.

WISCONSIN BANK HOLDUP SOLVED; FOUR MEN HELD

Stevens Point, Wis., Nov. 26 [Friday].—(AP)—Sherif John F. Kubisiak of Portage county said last night that a tip furnished by Lawrence Nesser and Martin Larson, two of his deputies, has resulted in solution of a $600 bank holdup in Butternut, Wis., Oct. 26 and has implicated four men.

Kubisiak said federal bureau of investigation agents arrested one of the men in Chicago shortly after Edward Zblewski, 23 years old, already being held in Madison for sentencing in federal court on a charge of robbing the Bancroft, Wis., State bank Nov. 8, signed a confession admitting participation in the Butternut job.

Two Polonia, Wis., men were taken to Ashland last night because, Kubisiak said, they admitted accompanying Zblewski and the man held in Chicago to Butternut, but denied a part in the holdup.

PRIEST, SISTER AND TWO NUNS DIE IN CRASH

Ladysmith, Wis., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A priest, his sister, and two nuns were injured fatally today when the priest's car struck a truck head-on.

The dead were Father Thomas F. Doyle, 57 years old, pastor of St. James Catholic church of Wausau; his sister, Mrs. Margaret Brady, 49, of Wausau; Sister Eucharia, 30, superior at St. James Catholic school, Wausau, and Sister Gemma, 22, of Green Bay.

Strip Tease Ban Forces Two Burlesques to Close

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Two burlesque theaters, which since September have been operating without strip tease acts under orders of the city administration, decided to close today. The Oriental theater, operated by the Minsky brothers, gave its final show tonight, and the Apollo theater will close after Sunday's performances.

SENATOR BRANDS 'NEUTRALITY' ACT BREEDER OF WAR

Lodge Offers Amendments to Promote Peace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Declaring the so-called neutrality act adopted at the last session of congress gives the President "the awesome power of peace and war," Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. [R., Mass.] today proposed a series of amendments curtailing executive discretion.

"The so-called neutrality act, passed last winter as a panacea for peace, actually is not neutral at all and tends to get us into war instead of keeping us out of it," said Senator Lodge. "This undoubtedly is the reason the President declines to invoke it at the present time, despite the fact the administration strongly favored it last year."

Would Give Congress Voice.

Senator Lodge's bill would direct the President to inform congress whenever he had reason to believe that a state of war existed between or among foreign states, or that a state of civil strife within a state threatened the peace of the United States. If the congress, by concurrent resolution, should express agreement with the President, he then would proclaim the existence of the state of war or strife. The neutrality provisions of the act then would become effective.

Senator Lodge's bill eliminates provisions of the existing act which authorize the President, in his discretion, to require belligerent nations purchasing supplies in this country to pay cash for them and transport them on their ships.

Makes U. S. Ally of the Strong.

"It strikes out the cash and carry provisions of the present law," the senator declared, "which automatically puts the United States on the side of the strongest nation."

Under Senator Lodge's bill, American ships could carry goods to belligerent nations only at their risk and American nationals would be prohibited by law from traveling on belligerent ships.

BINGHAM HOME; THANKFUL FOR SAFETY OF U. S.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Robert Worth Bingham, United States ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here today on the liner Manhattan. He is on sick leave.

The ambassador said he had a recurrence of malaria and left shortly for Baltimore, where he was admitted to Johns Hopkins hospital tonight.

He said he was reluctant to discuss international politics, but offered, as a Thanksgiving expression, this sentiment: "We ought to thank God every day that we live in the United States. It is the safest and the best place to live."

Bingham added that, despite the failure of the Brussels nine power conference, prospects for peace are brighter than a year ago, and that there is sound reason to believe a European war may be averted.

Jobless Census Tabulation Begun; Report Due Jan. 4

Biggers, administrator, announced today. The tabulation is being made by trained census bureau personnel under the direction of Frederick A. Gosnell. William E. Galvin, supervisor of the unemployment census, is working with Gosnell as Bigger's representative.

BRITISH SUGGEST U. S. SHOULD CUT WAR DEBT IN TWO

Revision Linked with Trade Treaty.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The idea of linking revision of the 1922 war debt settlement with the projected Anglo-American trade pact was being canvassed widely by British leaders here tonight. Suggestions were made that the United States might be induced to accept about half the actual amount due.

Sources which would like to see British credit reinstated in the United States on a pre-war basis said the idea apparently is to hold debt discussions immediately after the trade pact conversations.

Here's What British Want.

If America presses for full payment of the 4 billion 600 million dollar debt the British are ready to demand that the 2 billion 75 million dollars paid between 1923 and 1934 rank as repayment of capital. Britain might then agree to pay off the outstanding 2 billion 525 million dollars in 50 million dollar payments spread over the next 50 years.

Since December, 1932, Britain has suspended payment on half the yearly instalments. The nation now owes instalments totaling $871,815,600, excluding the instalment due next month.

Cordell Hull, American secretary of state, in an interview with the New York correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph said that the conclusion of the Anglo-American trade pact will be an achievement of outstanding importance toward world appeasement.

Advocates Trade Treaty.

The paper has been a leading advocate of such a trade treaty. In its report of the interview the paper stressed the viewpoint, attributed to Secretary Hull, that the economic approach will go a long way to settle discontent in central Europe, particularly if Berlin and Rome fall into line.

Hull, the correspondent said, expressed the belief the proposed pact will be signed by next summer.

"For eighteen years," Hull was quoted as saying, "foreign nations tried to achieve peace by diplomacy and failed. I believe the only hope for the world to recover from the present unsettled state lies along the road of liberal economic policies."

Referring to the "shadow of war which darkens the world," he expressed the conviction that the removal of excessive trade barriers offers the best foundation for stable economic peace and democratic government.

SKI EQUIPPED PLANE LOST ON SHORT TRIP IN ONTARIO; 11 ABOARD

HUDSON, Ont., Nov. 25.—(AP)—An airplane with nine passengers and a crew of two was reported missing tonight on a 120 mile flight from Pickle Lake to Sioux Lookout. The plane, piloted by Ken Smith of Starratt Airways, left Pickle Lake yesterday afternoon. The air journey normally takes less than an hour. Winter flying started a week ago, and the plane was fitted with skis. Names of the passengers were not available, but it was believed they were members of the Pickle Crow or Central Patricia Gold Mines companies staffs. The second member of the crew was Keith Gregson, a mechanic.

Large Arrow Indicates Pickle Lake, Where Plane Started.

Pickle Lake is 120 miles northeast and Sioux Lookout is 18 miles east of Hudson. Company officials said the airplane might have come down at Root Portage because of a fog, which today prevented search airplanes from leaving Hudson.

ROOSEVELTS EAT TURKEY DINNER IN WHITE HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt and a family party observed Thanksgiving in the capital today by dining on a sixteen pound turkey, the gift of citizens of Arthurdale, W. Va.

It was the first time since he entered the White House that the President carved a turkey and ate his Thanksgiving dinner there. Previously he has dined at Warm Springs, Ga., but this year he was forced to cancel plans for a trip there because he is recuperating from an infected tooth. Dining with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt were his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt; their two daughters, Sara and Kate, and members of the secretarial staff.

The President's official family, for the most part, stayed in Washington for Thanksgiving. Vice President and Mrs. Garner had dinner in their hotel, but no turkey was on the menu. Mr. Garner doesn't like turkey.

mission and tied to seats until the train reached Hachita, where they were turned over to Sherif R. G. Franey.

"They almost ruined us," Lorenz said. "They tied us so tight we couldn't move."

Strangers to Cow Country.

Glancing at their torn cowboy regalia, Sherif Franey said: "They hadn't ever been in the cow country until five or six weeks ago.

"They admitted the holdup, but denied they shot Smith. Dwyer is so badly beaten he can hardly talk."

The sherif said Lorenz, who formerly lived in Brooklyn, N. Y., came to Deming with Dwyer, and the two posed as cowboys.

"They bought horses in El Paso and I guess they rode to Deming," he said. "They hung around here until Sunday, then sold their horses and went back to El Paso."

Determine Jurisdiction.

District Attorney Joseph Hodges questioned the prisoners and trainmen and after he determined that the shooting of Smith took place in Dona Ana county the two were turned over to officers of that county by Sherif Franey and taken to jail in Las Cruces. Charges against the men will be filed tomorrow.

At El Paso, Sherif Chris Fox arrested two sisters from Deming, 18 and 20 years old, who, he said, came to El Paso Monday with the two bandits.

"The boys told us they were working for a carnival," the girls related, "and said they were going west yesterday. They promised to write us letters."

Known as Wayward Boy.

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Henry Lorenz was known here as a wayward boy who ran away from home several times and who once was arrested on a burglary charge. His family moved from Manitowoc to Chicago a year and a half ago.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—John Weston today spent his first Thanksgiving away from home, but none the less he ate a genuine home cooked dinner, consisting of hot roast chicken, pumpkin pie, and preserves. It all came about when Weston, here to study art and advertising, wrote his mother in Monticello, Minn., expressing a longing for her pumpkin pies. Yesterday his desires were gratified. A United Air Lines plane brought the food here in thermos pads to keep them hot on the 1,900 mile trip.

YEGGS SEIZE GIRL, CRACK SAFE, THEN CALL HER HOME

Rob Highland Park Coal Company Office.

A couple of thoughtful safe crackers burglarized the offices of the Mutual Coal company in Highland Park Thanksgiving afternoon, then called the parents of a young woman they left tied and gagged in the place to make sure she would be freed before nightfall.

The girl is Muriel McEwen, 25 years old, who lives at 448 Nadia terrace, directly back of the coal company's offices at 429 Vine avenue. She was taking a short cut through the coal yard and looked into the window of the office as she passed. She saw the burglars at work.

Seized and Threatened.

But they also had seen her. Two who were inside ran out and seized her, took her back with them, gagged her, and bound her to a chair. They set her face to the wall and threatened to kill her if she looked around.

A short time later another face appeared at the window. It was Joseph Spano, a passerby. The burglars ran out and dragged him in, beating him with a revolver and throwing him on the floor near the girl when he resisted. He feigned unconsciousness, however, and was not bound.

Then for two and a half hours they worked on the safe in the office with a big wrench they had picked up in the coal yard. When they got it open and rifled it they ungagged Miss McEwen and demanded her name and phone number. She gave them. They left and entered a car which a third robber had been driving around and around the block.

Notify Father of Girl.

In a short time Miss McEwen's father, Thomas, who works for the company as a part-time watchman and fireman, got a phone call. He was told where his daughter could be found.

He called the police, who went to the coal office and released Muriel. She was taken home, where she collapsed from terror and shock.

The burglars obtained only $4.85. They gave Miss McEwen $1 to repay her for a quart of ice cream which she was carrying when seized and which melted while she was held prisoner.

Miss McEwen gave police a partial description of two of the burglars, in spite of their threats.

EDITOR IS FOUND DEAD IN MYSTERY IN HOTEL ROOM

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special]—Claude H. Kendall, an associate editor of the publishing house of James T. White and company, was found dead in his room in the Hotel Madison on East 27th street this afternoon. Circumstances surrounding his death were a mystery, although Inspector M. F. McDermott said the death did not appear to be a homicide.

Kendall, 48 years old and former head of Kendall and Sharp, publishers, had been put to bed fully dressed, except for shoes, at 12:30 a. m. after a drinking party last night. The hotel elevator operator said Kendall went out later and returned at 3:30 a. m., accompanied by a stranger. The stranger never was seen to leave the hotel.

Occupants of the room above Kendall's said they heard a falling sound at 4:30 a. m. A maid found Kendall's body with a sheet wound around his head. Dr. Thomas A. Gonzales, a police surgeon, said he would not express an opinion about Kendall's death until an autopsy was completed.

Trapeze Flyer, 'Extension Nosed' Man Thrill Crowds

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Thousands of New York children and their parents watched the man on the flying trapeze and Pinocchio, the 44-foot man with the nose that grew longer every time he told a lie, cavort down Manhattan streets today. Under a cloudless sky the thirteenth annual Thanksgiving Day parade under the auspices of a large department store was watched by the largest crowd in its history. Children laughed at the efforts of 35 men to keep "officer SOS 13" in control, and were thrilled by the sea monster which bubbled along under the propulsion of 8,300 cubic feet of gas.

ROBBED OF PURSE.

Mrs. Dorothy Murray, 26, of 6427 Drexel avenue, last night reported to Woodlawn police that two colored men snatched her purse, containing $3, at Marquette and Drexel.

MARRIAGE MILL FACES TEST IN INDIANA COURT

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Indiana marriage mill question of whether county clerks may issue marriage licenses to the women applicants who are nonresidents of the issuing counties will be decided by the Indiana Supreme court.

Appealing the injunction issued against him in Lake County Circuit court, Clerk George W. Sweigart is asking the high court to erase the order. The injunction, issued early this month, prevents Sweigart from issuing licenses to couples when the woman is not a resident of Lake county.

The Lake court injunction was issued after the license output at Crown Point had reached 1,700 monthly. Business has been good in recent years in Crown Point, but it boomed this year after passage in Illinois of a law requiring marrying couples to submit to a blood test and preventing marriages of those found with social diseases.

DUKE AND WALLY GO TO AMERICAN CHURCH SERVICE

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The duke and duchess of Windsor attended Thanksgiving services today at the American Quai d'Orsay church as guests of United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

The church pastor, the Rev. Clayton E. Williams, suggested it would be particularly appropriate for the Windsors to attend because "the first Americans to celebrate Thanksgiving were English."

It was the former King Edward VIII. of England's first appearance in Paris for public church service. He remained away from Church of England Armistice Day services here because the vicar said the duke would be unwelcome.

BELLOC CHARGES PRESS HIDES BIG NEWS IN BRITAIN

Asserts Readers Are Kept in Dark by Design.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—British newspapers keep the British public ignorant of vitally important matters partly through deliberate suppression and partly through their own ignorance, Hilaire Belloc, noted author and editor, charged today.

Knowledge of the real state of American opinion and the views of the American press will give any one innumerable examples of such omissions by the British press, Belloc said in an article published in the G. K.'s Weekly, of which he is editor.

Of the American press he said, however: "The American press has no serious knowledge of European things."

[Belloc, who is 67 years old, has written dozens of books since 1895, at one time writing 14 books in three years. Among his widely known works are "Blenheim," "The Free Press," "Richelieu," "Napoleon," and his recent book, "The Crusades."]

Holds Britons Are in the Dark.

In the French press facts always are distorted to suit each paper's bias, Belloc said, but added that by reading half a dozen French papers of moderate views it is possible to get all the important facts on current matters.

"No one in England can get a general impression of that kind no matter how many of our newspapers he consults," Belloc declared.

Among the topics about which he said the British public is left in the dark Belloc cited the problems of Ireland's exact status and its relations toward England, the present strategic command of the Mediterranean and Red seas, and the comparative strength of the armaments of foreign countries.

Press Held to Be "Official."

Some subjects are suppressed bodily, he said, because "the press is solidly official and therefore constrained by every canon of public morals to suppress a vast number of things which not so long ago would have been published."

Other subjects simply are not known or their importance is not appreciated by those who own or write for the papers, he asserted.

CHICAGO SHARES THANKSGIVING TURKEY WITH ALL

The scenic background of Thanksgiving—snow—was missing yesterday, but turkey and plenty of it helped make the usual memorable holiday in Chicago.

Hospitals and other institutions served nearly 13,000 men, women and children with holiday feasts. At the County hospital Lige Debowski, wounded hero, shared his turkey dinner with his wife, Wanda, and their two sons. Many restaurants and individuals gave free dinners to the needy and unfortunate.

TRY TO FIX NORTH POLE AS BRITISH COLUMBIA LIMIT

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Premier T. D. Pattullo today proposed extension of British Columbia's boundaries "not only to take in the Yukon territory but also the territory east of the Yukon following the 120th meridian to the north pole." The extension would add 400,000 square miles to the province's 385,654 square miles of land area.

The northern part of British Columbia's eastern boundary is the 120th meridian. Extension of this boundary, as proposed, to the north pole would bring about two-thirds of Banks Island in the Beaufort sea and about half of Prince Patrick Island into British Columbia.

Raise Personalty Taxes on Lake County Estates

Homer T. Cook, chairman of the Lake county board of review, announced yesterday that revision of the 1937 personal property assessments should be completed within ten days. For the first time the board has also reviewed personalty taxes on estates of deceased persons. All eighty-five examined have had their taxes increased, Cook said. The assessment on the estate of Milton S. Florsheim, shoe merchant, who died Dec. 22, 1936, has been raised from $61,500 to $84,000, making its tax, $4,192, the largest in the county.

JAP SPIES CLAD AS MONKS START REVOLT IN TIBET

Native Troops Mutiny in Forbidden City.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25. — Japanese "monks" have penetrated into Tibet and are stirring up trouble in the "forbidden city" of Lhasa, reports from Calcutta, India, said today. This is the first information of an armed uprising of Buddhist monks, or lamas, against the government of Tibet.

Tibetan merchants arriving in Calcutta said the revolt was engineered by a group of Japanese who arrived at Lhasa disguised in the yellow cloaks of Buddhist monks. It was reported the monks were discovered to be spies from the headquarters of Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japanese intelligence officer who often is called the "Lawrence of Manchukuo."

Visit Cave Monasteries.

Secretly visiting the cave monasteries of Lhasa and the surrounding mountainsides, the Japanese monks were reported to have photographed and mapped all the territory they covered.

The ostensible cause of the revolt was said to be the government's refusal to accept a new Dalai Lama—of Lamaism—who was discovered a year and a half ago by the Tashi Lama.

Tibetan soldiers mutinied and marched on the palace of the Lhasa government to force authorities to put the Dalai Lama on the spiritual and temporal throne of Tibet.

Rig Up Radio Station.

All government activities in Lhasa, it was pointed out, mysteriously are known in the Japanese intelligence headquarters in China. It was believed that the Japanese "monks" established a secret radio station somewhere in the mountains around Lhasa for the transmission of daily cipher reports.

Great Britain has a trade agent at Gyantse, a key point on the road into Tibet. He is supposed to have knowledge of these developments.

Tibet, most mysterious of countries of central Asia, is under British influence despite China's claim to sovereignty. The country is bleak and mountainous and strangers have been jealously excluded. Wide areas of Tibet are still unexplored. It is known to be rich in gold borax and salt. There is a large trade with China and India.

Baby Picked as Ruler.

On May 27, 1936, a baby boy was picked by mystical methods to become the new Dalai Lama, or "living Buddha" to succeed the thirteenth Dalai Lama, who died Dec. 17, 1933, under mysterious circumstances in one of his palaces.

The baby was chosen after a three year hunt for the "reincarnation" of the Dalai Lama. Tibetans believe the old Dalai Lama's immortal soul entered the body of the infant at the moment of his death.

Second in the authority in the country and Lamaism, a corrupt form of Buddhism, is the Teshu Lama, to whom are attributed great spiritual powers.

The population of Tibet, which has an area of 463,200 square miles, is unknown. Estimates range from 6,000,000 to as low as 700,000 to 800,000. Almost one-fifth of the population is lamas or priests.

Revolt in Tibet

(Story in adjoining column.)

Arrow points to the "forbidden city" of Lhasa, Tibet, where Japanese spies clad as Buddhist monks stirred up a revolt. Tibet lamas, or monks, rebelled against the government and native soldiers mutinied. Though China claims sovereignty to Tibet, Great Britain acts as overlord.

BERLIN AND TOKIO PRAISE ALLIANCE TO WIPE OUT REDS

Nations Celebrate; Pact Is 1 Year Old.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—Germany and Japan coöperated today in observing the first anniversary of the signing of their pact against communism. Italy joined the aliance this month.

Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, and Ryutaro Nagai, Japanese minister of communications, spoke on a Berlin-Tokio radio hookup linking all German and Japanese stations.

Goebbels said the pact against communism has assumed importance far beyond the borders of Germany and Japan.

Call Pact Necessary.

"There is no better proof of the necessity of the pact and the correctness of the path we have chosen than the fact that Italy recently joined it," he said. "In many countries understanding of the importance of the pact is growing steadily."

Nagai said the Chinese-Japanese conflict is a "holy fight for the liberation of the Chinese people from the red danger and for the safeguarding of peace in the far east."

"Germany and Japan have great blood and are bound by common political and cultural traditions," he added.

The newspaper Der Angriff ridiculed America's sympathy for the Chinese cause and its failure to do more than file an academic declaration condemning war at the Brussels nine power treaty conference.

Says Sympathy Is with China.

"American public opinion obviously is in sympathy with the weaker party in the far east conflict," said the paper. "Norman D. Davis [head of the American delegation] went to Brussels and set his signature under a resolution disapproving Japan's procedure. What does this signature and the moralizing tone of the American press signify compared to the reality of the political will of 130,000,000 people?"

2 Nations May Join Pact.

BERLIN, Nov. 25. — (AP) — Political circles tonight interpreted a statement made by Premier Koloman Daranyi of Hungary, following a visit with Reichsfuehrer Hitler, as indicating Hungary and Austria would join the Berlin-Rome-Tokio anti-communist pact.

Daranyi said Hungary was ready to coöperate in a policy based on friendship with Germany and on the Rome protocols.

These protocols, already linking Italy, Austria and Hungary with economic and financial bonds, have been the bases of anti-communist negotiations among the three countries.

DEFENDS PHONE TAPPING AS DONE IN BRITISH ISLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Just how and when the British police open private letters and tap telephones is their secret, Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare informed the house of commons today under questioning.

"It is the essence of this power," said Sir Samuel, to whose office is entrusted all police matters, "that particulars should not be disclosed as to the occasion or manner of its use."

Sir Samuel assured the house that he is conscious such power should be used with discretion and said that warants must be issued by his department before such activity is permitted. British courts generally refuse to recognize evidence which police admit has been obtained in this manner, but the information thus obtained usually enables the police to find other evidence which is acceptable.

JAPS CROSS LAKE IN JUNKS TO CUT STRATEGIC ROAD

Land at Point 90 Miles from Nanking.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 26.—[Friday.]—A flying column of Japanese soldiers today crossed to the western shore of Lake Tai in a makeshift fleet of junks and sampans in a bold attempt to cut the strategic motor road between Changhing and Ihing.

A Japanese spokesman said they had landed at a point about 90 miles southeast of Nanking, China's almost deserted capital, and would occupy Changhing within a few hours. Chinese advices, however, said only 1,000 Japanese had made the landing in the face of Chinese resistance and that they were being surrounded.

Town Reported in Flames.

A Japanese statement also reported that Japanese detachments were advancing from fallen Wusih, one of the strongest points in the Chinese defense line guarding Nanking, toward Wutsin, 20 miles beyond. Wutsin, on the Shanghai-Nanking railroad, was said to be in flames after a Japanese bombardment.

Chinese said Japanese troops had been repulsed so often in their assaults on the Kiangyin forts, which block passage up the Yangtze river, that the Japanese planned to land on the north bank of the river. From their new position, the Chinese said, the Japanese would attempt to attack the forts from up the river.

In its drive along the Shanghai-Nanking railroad the Japanese army had advanced nearly halfway to China's capital.

Break Center of Line.

Wusih, which was captured by the Japanese in a battle yesterday, is the center of the winding 165 mile front from Kiangyin on the Yangtze south to Taihu on the shores of Lake Tai.

One Japanese column consolidated its position at Chapoo on Hangchow bay, forty-five miles southwest of Shanghai, and advanced along the north shore of the bay toward Halyen with Hangchow, capital of Chekiang, the presumable objective.

Japanese planes bombed retreating Chinese at Wusih and strong concentrations at Kiangyin as well as Nanking. Heavy Chinese reënforcements were rushed from Nanking to bolster the cracking defenses of the city.

Battle in Tsinan Area.

At Tsinan, capital of Shantung province in the north, shells fell near the homes of Americans celebrating Thanksgiving. Twelve deaths and many casualties were reported among Chinese civilians from the clash between Japanese artillery and a Chinese armored train near the Yellow river. Thirty Americans were still at Tsinan.

While the Shanghai American colony ate its Thanksgiving dinner, mobs of hungry, war-stricken Chinese stormed rice shops for food. The fixed bayonets of the Shanghai volunteer corps guarded a cargo of rice being unloaded from a British ship.

Files Third Divorce Action Against Son of Ex-King

HAVANA, Nov. 25. — (AP) — Marta Rocafort, second countess of Covadonga, today filed her third suit for divorce. Her husband is the eldest son of former King Alfonso XIII. of Spain. Technicalities invalidated her first two suits, neither of which were opposed by the Count. The Count, living at a downtown hotel, refused to discuss the new action.

ALBANIA CELEBRATES 25 YEARS' FREEDOM WITH SPEECH BY KING

TIRANA, Albania, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Albania opened today the celebration of the 25th anniversary of its independence with 101 shots heard around the world and a speech by King Zog I.

Thousands of mountain people crowded into Tirana and Royal Albanian artillery fired cannon for microphones which carried the sound by radio throughout the world.

Albania, a nation of 1,000,000 population, declared its independence Nov. 28, 1912, after centuries of Turkish domination. Zog, who was elected president of a short lived republic in 1925, was declared king in 1928. He is 42 years of age.

CHICAGO DANCER HOME; AIR BOMBS END JOB IN CHINA

Miss Terese Rudolph, professional dancer who went through two bombings in the undeclared warfare at Shanghai, returned yesterday to her home at 1560 East 61st street. Miss Rudolph, who is 21 years old, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Terese Rudolph.

The disastrous bombing of the Cathay hotel in Shanghai on Aug. 14 closed Miss Rudolph's engagement there. She was rehersing in a hall on the mezzanine floor when Chinese planes, aiming at Japanese warships in the Whangpoo river, dropped bombs which damaged the Cathay and Palace hotels.

When Americans were asked to leave Shanghai Miss Rudolph traveled on a tender under a crossfire of Chinese and Japanese artillery to the liner President Hoover. All of her effects, except one suitcase of costumes, were left on the bund. Coolies could not get to them because of shell fire. On Aug. 30 Chinese planes bombed the President Hoover, killing one sailor and wounding eight. Miss Rudolph's leg was scratched by shattered porthole glass.

MUSSOLINI AID DARES FRANCE TO LAUNCH A WAR

Battle of Words Brings on New Crisis.

accepts the challenge. What remains to be seen is how and when and with how much courage and resolution Campinchi, the bloodthirsty, and his gang will redeem the vainglorious promise made at 11 o'clock on the 23d of October to the sailors of the General Bonaparte."

SEIZE LEADER OF PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 25.—Coincident with the arrest today of Eugene de l'Oncle, described as founder and head of a secret revolutionary committee plotting to overthrow the republic and set up a monarchist dictatorship, Surete Nationale [secret police] officials disclosed the committee planned to use natives of France's North African colonies as "shock troops."

Seized documents revealed plans for a huge force, moving through the Paris sewers, armed with modern machine guns, automatic rifles, and hand grenades, to launch the coup d'etat, police asserted.

About 400 native Moroccans and Algerians in Paris were said to have belonged to the revolutionary organization. Three Algerians were arrested as paid organizers.

Changed Hideouts Daily.

De l'Oncle, whose wife had told police he was traveling in Italy, was seized early this morning. It was learned he has been in Paris during all the search, changing his hideout daily. Minister of Interior Marx Dormoy got out of bed to question him.

De l'Oncle, who is 47 years old and formerly was a consulting engineer at the St. Nazaire shipyards, declared the aim of his organization was not a revolt, but to resist an eventual communist putsch.

Police also held Henri de l'Oncle, a brother of Eugene, who is a Cannes jeweler. He told police he operated an "anti-communist information bureau."

Air General Is Indicted.

As the nation-wide hunt for hidden arms, leaders of the revolutionary committee and their sources of funds continued, developments connected with the plot today included:

FIRST—The indictment of Gen. Edouard Duseigneur, retired former chief of staf of the air ministry, on a charge of "associating with malefactors." He was described as technical adviser to De l'Oncle and chief of "les Cagoulards" [the hooded ones] a band thought to be one section of De l'Oncle's Comité Secret d'Action Revolutionnaire, known by its initials as "CSAR." The general is held in Santé prison.

SECOND—A police raid on the office of the Courrier Royal, newspaper owned by the count of Paris, son of the Duc de Guise who last week in a manifesto called on "all the French" to restore him to the abolished throne of France. Agents removed from the office for study a quantity of records. The editor, Pierre Langone, was held for questioning.

THIRD—Raids in Paris which police asserted resulted in the capture of sufficient arms to equip an army of several thousand "shock troops." Pierre Parent, an architect, was held after stores of arms were seized in his luxurious house in the center of Paris.

Belgian Eye Duke's Acts.

It was rumored today the French government had quietly asked the Belgian government to investigate the activities of the duc de Guise. It was assumed the duke's manifesto and the count of Paris' political activities in Switzerland [for which he was "invited" to leave that country] must have been prepared from the Brussels seat of the family, Manor d'Anjou. The duke and count issued from Brussels a statement denying they ever had anything to do with the Cagoulards or the revolutionary plotters.

At Lyons Col. François de la Rocque, Fascist leader, refused a proposal to make him life president of his French Social party "lest it look like we were planning a dictatorship." He thanked delegates to the party convention, but declared that "as a real democrat" he could not accept.

De la Rocque has been accused by leftists of having dictatorial ambitions and the government charges the French Social party is another name for his banned Croix de Feu [cross of fire].

His brother is an aid to the count of Paris, but Col. de la Rocque has not been linked to the Cagoulards or CSAR.

Vote to Raise Government Employes' Pay in France

PARIS, Nov. 26 [Friday].—(AP)—Premier Camille Chautemps won his second vote of confidence within a week today when the chamber of deputies approved a government bill to raise the wages of government employés. Vote on the measure earmarking 1,745,000,000 francs [about $59,260,200] for pensions and wage increases was 518 to 6.

POLICE COURTROOM ROBBED.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A burglar broke into the police courtroom last night and robbed the money boxes of 26 slot machines which had been seized in raids.

PLANES ATTACK MANY SPANISH CITIES IN RAIDS

Guadalajara, Near Madrid, Heavily Damaged.

MADRID, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Spanish rebel air bombers were reported to have killed 15 persons and injured 50 today in a raid on Guadalajara, 30 miles northeast of Madrid.

The planes appeared over the city at noon and dropped about 100 bombs. The heavy load of explosives wrecked many buildings. The casualty list was expected to increase when the debris was cleared away.

Government pursuit planes quickly took to the air against the raiders, but the rebel aviators all escaped under cover of a mist which had allowed them to approach unseen.

Raids in Two Other Sectors.

The raid was the worst of six reported during the day. On the northern Aragon front government aviators attacked the rebel strongholds Saragossa, Huesca and Jaca, where large troop concentrations have been reported. Three other towns in the Jaca sector were bombed.

Rebel planes from Mallorca in the Mediterranean bombed Beni-Carlo, Santa Magdalena and Vinaroz on Spain's east coast. Damage was said to have been slight.

A government communique stated that 40 rebels were killed in a night assault in the university city quarter of Madrid—scene of continuous fighting—when a mine was exploded to halt the rebel attack.

Officials announced 27 persons were killed and about 90 wounded in yesterday's shelling of Madrid. More than 1,200 shells fell during the prolonged bombardment.

Rebels Threaten France.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel régime today threatened to carry the civil war across the French border if Spanish government planes again raided rebel positions "after crossing French territory."

The rebel authorities at Salamanca announced their war planes would "chase and fight government planes in France." Rebels charged 18 government raiders yesterday entered rebel territory from France with the "evident complicity of the French Popular Front government."

Although the French foreign office called the charges "ridiculous," they ordered border authorities to investigate. French officials said it was "quite possible" government planes flew high along the French side of the border and then swooped south into rebel Spain.

They indicated the rebels had been guilty equally and said they would "take proper action if we establish either one side or the other has been flying over our territory."

Bombs Rain on Spain

(Story in adjoining column.)

Three war fronts were affected yesterday in a day of plane bombing raids in Spain. Rebel raids are shown by black arrows, loyalist by white. Heavy casualties and damage were inflicted on Guadalajara in a raid by rebel planes. Government planes raided cities in the Saragosso - Huesca - Jaca region. Rebel planes from Mallorca bombed three towns of the loyalist eastern coast.

3 Attired as Sailor, Flyer, and Collegian Rob Tavern

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Three robbers walked into Ray Comstock's beer parlor today. One wore the cap, sun glasses and slicker of a yachtsman. Another was dressed as an aviator, helmet, goggles and all. The third wore a college boy's skull cap and sweater. The yachtsman shot open the cash drawer with a shotgun and the trio left with $20 and a bottle of whisky. Vernon Daniels, a customer, saved $11 by chewing up the currency with a mouthful of crackers.

BUYERS' STRIKE BOTTLES UP CITY JUNK BUSINESS

'Any Rags--Old Iron?' Cry Partly Silenced.

Strident voices of junkmen are heard no more—or mighty seldom—in Chicago's alleys these days and janitors of big buildings worry as piles of old paper and empty Scotch, Bourbon and gin bottles accumulate in their basements.

The collectors don't come because about half of them are on what they term a strike against the junkyards that buy material from them. The other half are so harassed by organizers and union pickets that they are able to work only at intervals.

"This strike, which has been in effect since Oct. 1, has tied up the whole industry," declared a spokesman for Morton H. Lynn, secretary of the Chicago Waste Material Dealers' association. "We estimate that it has cost the junk peddlers and our yards $750,000 since it was started."

Tell of Flying Bullets.

There have been occasional flareups of violence in connection with the strike. [The term strike is something of a misnomer, as the junk collectors, or peddlers, are not employés of the yards, but independent business men.] On Tuesday five organizers for the United Junk Peddlers' union complained to the police that they were fired on by a peddler's helper whom they halted at Grace and Rokeby streets and invited to join their union. The police, unable to find the gunman, advised that a warant be taken out for him. This was not done.

The peddlers have demanded that a minimum price agreement be made with them, so they can be assured of reasonable returns for their labor. The waste material dealers' reply was that if they entered into any combination to fix prices at which they buy they would be violating the anti-trust laws. They have asked the federal trade commission, they assert, to tell them how far they can go along this line, and also they have requested the state's attorney and the United States district attorney to investigate alleged intimidation of the peddlers who want to sell.

Plan to Have Own Yards.

Max Schulman, an attorney, announced yesterday that the peddlers, tired of waiting for the yard owners to deal collectively with them, have started a coöperative association to operate their own yards.

"There are at least 500 subscribers," said Schulman, "and we are now dickering for the purchase of properties on all sides of the city. We are prepared to pay all these properties are worth and we'll be competing with the yards now in existance in a short time."

Judge Michael Feinberg early in October refused to grant the United Junk Peddlers' union, a C. I. O. affiliate, an injunction to restrain the police from molesting their pickets at the junk yards. He ruled that picketing was a weapon permissible only to employés on strike and could not be invoked by one set of business men against another group.

POLICE TO KEEP CARD INDEX OF KNOWN MORONS

Chicago police are setting up a new system of scientific crime detection, including a running census of known morons, classified according to the types of their crimes, to deal with sex offenses, Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan announced yesterday.

To operate the new system, thirty additional policemen will be transferred to the homicide squad under Lieut. Otto Erianson on Dec. 1, Chief Sullivan said. The homicide squad also deals with sex offenses, and quarters for the enlarged unit are being prepared on the fourth floor of the police headquarters building at 11th and State streets.

Hereafter all persons arrested as suspects in sex cases will be taken to the new bureau and details of their records entered on punch cards such as are used by the census bureau and for other statistical work, classified by type, nationality, place of residence, and other important facts.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GANG HEAD SLAIN, 4 SHOT DOWN BY ASSASSINS IN BAR

Harry Millman Victim of Executioners.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Gangland executioners invaded a restaurant and cocktail bar crowded with Thanksgiving eve merrymakers early today and shot and killed Harry Millman, described as a lone wolf of the underworld. They wounded four other men. While the grill was in an uproar they escaped in a small sedan. Tonight police search for the killers was handicapped by multiplicity of motives and derth of clews.

Harry Millman. [A. P. Wirephoto]

Two of the wounded men were employed in Millman's horse race handbook and the gunmen deliberately turned their pistols on them after pumping nine bullets into Millman. The other victims were bystanders.

Viewed as Reprisal.

Millman was known as the last leader of Detroit's notorious Purple gang, which was disrupted by the repeal of prohibition and by blasts of gunfire. Police said he had been living on borrowed time. It was the second attempt on his life within three months.

Officers said there were at least twenty tenable motives for his slaying. The motive most generally accepted was reprisal for attempting to seize control of other rackets.

Detective Lieutenant Tom Hutchinson of the homicide squad said that Millman had been arrested twenty-eight times in the twenty-seven years of his life on charges ranging from carrying weapons and hijacking to robbery and murder. In every case except three he was freed. He was twice convicted for trafic violations and once for carrying a gun.

Because none of the patrons in the cocktail bar and adjoining restaurant professed to recognize the killers, police expressed the belief that they were brought from some other city as paid executioners. Supporting that theory was the fact that the slayers fled in an automobile with New York license places. The plates had been reported stolen.

Two Associates Wounded.

The two wounded associates of Millman were Harry Gross and Harry Cooper. Gross was critically wounded in the shoulder, back, and abdomen. Cooper suffered only a flesh wound in the neck.

The wounded bystanders were Abe Betensky, a Detroit linoleum salesman who was dining with his wife in the adjacent restaurant, and Harry Shulak, Toledo, O., a furrier, who was standing beside Millman at the bar. Betensky, wounded critically in the back and shoulder, fell at his wife's feet. Shulak was shot in the left side and hand.

Tony Climbs from Wreck; Agrees He's a Lucky Boy

An automobile, swerved sharply by its driver to avoid another car, crashed into a safety island at Western avenue and 64th street early this morning. The island post was knocked down. The automobile turned over. Its windshield and windows were broken. As witnesses ran up, expecting to find one or more persons dead, Anthony Polletto, 21 years old, of Steger, Ill., the driver, climbed through the windshield, stood up, and brushed off his clothes. "Not even a tear," he said happily.

REVEAL 2D SEX CRIME OF YOUTH SHOT IN ESCAPE

Eugene Ostheimer, 24 years old, 4449 North Troy street, who was severely wounded Wednesday night in the Carl Schurz High school building while attempting to escape after being arrested on complaint of two girl students was revealed yesterday as a sex crime repeater.

Chief of Police Harold W. Johnson of Park Ridge notified Albany Park police that he arrested Ostheimer in 1936 after similar complaints at the Maine Township High school. At that time the youth was questioned in the state's attorney's sex offense bureau and later taken before a police magistrate and fined $150.

Ostheimer was shot by Policeman George Lowing when he fled while they were waiting in the principal's office for the patrol wagon. Physicians at Belmont hospital said his condition is critical.

RAIL PATROLMAN TELLS OF FOILING TRAIN WRECKERS

Testifies Dynamite Found in Roadbed.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 25.—(AP)—One of the special patrolmen hired by central Illinois railroads in an effort to check the 1932-'35 coal field bombings told a federal court jury today that he prevented the bombing of a passenger train.

Thomas Guy of Springfield testified that he was riding a gasoline car while on patrol duty on the tracks ahead of a northbound Chicago and Illinois Midland passenger train out of Springfield Aug. 5, 1935.

Tells of Flagging Train.

He testified that near Andrew he found 108 sticks of dynamite in the roadbed. He disconnected switch wires, Guy declared, and flagged the passenger train 200 feet from the explosives.

It was the first time the federal jury had heard testimony about a passenger train.

Judge Charles G. Briggle held a court session on Thanksgiving morning in efforts to speed up the prolonged mass trial of forty-one men charged with conspiracy to bomb trains hauling coal from mines that didn't recognize the Progressive Miners of America.

Engine Blasted from Rails.

Two Illinois Central trainmen from Clinton testified today they were seriously injured when dynamite rolled their locomotive over an embankment just south of Springfield, delaying freight and mails. Engineer W. A. Hoff lost 104 days of work from injuries, while Fireman I. T. Fitzgerald said he was laid up more than two months.

HUNT UNION FOES FOR MURDER OF FILM OPERATOR

Fred Blacker, 42 years old, motion picture operator who was shot and killed early yesterday morning in a typical gangland assassination in Summit, was the victim of some of his many enemies in Indiana labor circles. This opinion was expressed last evening by Assistant State's Attorney Eugene Wachowski and Lieut. Fred Mulhausen of the county highway police after they spent the holiday investigating clews to the slaying.

Fred Blacker.

Blacker was hiding from both the law and his enemies under the assumed name of James Brown and under that name had obtained a job in the Argo Grand theater, 7666 West 63d street. He was walking with his wife, Selina, 35 years old, of Kokomo, Ind., when one of three masked men shot and killed him at 75th avenue and 62d place.

Killers Leap from Car.

The assassins, in an automobile, trailed Blacker from the theater. They passed him first, as if to make sure of his identity, and then turned around and stopped in front of him. Two masked men jumped from the automobile and while one of them held Mrs. Blacker the other fired a shot into her husband's head. When Blacker fell to the ground one of the men leaned over and shot him again.

Blacker, business agent for the Kokomo Moving Picture Operators' union, fled from Indiana last May when an extradition warant was issued for him. He was wanted in Brooklyn in connection with the stench bombing of a motion picture theater. He was a fugitive from police in both Indiana and New York and from his labor enemies, who found him first. Prosecutor Wachowski said he believed the slayers learned of Blacker's hiding place by trailing his wife to Chicago.

Quiz Wife and Housekeeper.

Mrs. Blacker, who is employed as a bookkeeper in Kokomo, and Miss Rebecca Donnell, 28 years old, who for the last month was Blacker's housekeeper in his hideout apartment at 7426 West 52d street, were released after intensive questioning by the prosecutor. They were told to report at the inquest at 10 a. m. today.

The police learned that Blacker had been in various scrapes throughout Indiana because of his union activities. He was assaulted and beaten over the head with an iron bar two years ago in Kokomo. His life was threatened many times.

FOUND UNSCONSCIOUS ON WALK.

A man about 60 years old, well dressed except for lack of a coat, was found injured and unconscious on the sidewalk in front of 1161 Howe street early yesterday.

STRIKE FAILS TO STOP GREYHOUND BUSES IN CHICAGO

While federal labor conciliators arranged for a conference at Cleveland today in an effort to settle the strike of Greyhound bus line drivers, company officials in Chicago reported only slight interruption in the bus service here yesterday. The passenger load in this area has been reduced 40 per cent, however, because of the strike, according to Fred W. Benefiel, vice president of the Central Greyhound Lines. Two runs were canceled last night because of lack of business.

Union drivers employed by the lines, who are demanding a closed shop and increased mileage wage rates, struck early yesterday in 16 states east of the Mississippi river and north of the Ohio river and Norfolk, Va. Union officials said 1,300 were on strike, but the company denied this, declaring fewer than 25 of the 120 drivers in Chicago were out.

At the Greyhound terminal in Cleveland, Ray Krause, a striking driver, threw himself beneath the wheels of a New York bound bus. The vehicle stopped and Krause, uninjured, was arrested.

Sisters, 11 and 14, Break Through Ice and Drown

Phillipsburg, N. J., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Palma and Margaret Santini ventured out on the thin ice of a pond near their home this afternoon and drowned. Palma was 14 years old and her sister 11.

Woman, 64, Dies of Burns; Cleaning Fluid Is Blamed

Mrs. Josephine Bartik, 64 years old, 1900 South 61st avenue, Cicero, died in the Berwyn hospital yesterday of burns suffered on Wednesday night. She was found with her clothing afire in front of 1834 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn. Two broken bottles which had contained cleaning fluid were discovered nearby, and police assumed Mrs. Bartik's dress caught fire from the fluid.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

TO EXPERIENCE

By CALEB

A YOUNG man in our store was confiding in me, "Speaking unofficially, I believe I could handle X's job," and he mentioned his superior officer—a man of gray hair and long experience.

"I have boned up," said the young fellow, "on the merchandise in our section. I know its history. I know where and how it is made and why it is made as it is. I know the best sources and why they are best. I know every selling point. I believe I know as much about all this as he does. But he gets to use what he knows because he makes decisions."

"Have you ever heard the story," I asked, "which George V of England used to tell on himself? As a boy he was serving on a naval training ship. One day the captain handed him the sextant and asked him to determine the ship's position in latitude and longitude. George tackled the problem with vim. He grappled manfully with the mathematical calculations and at last, sure he was victor, he handed the captain his reckoning.

"The captain looked at it, and turning to George, said gravely, 'Your Royal Highness, please remove your cap. According to your figures we are about to sail into Westminster Abbey.'"

My self-confident young friend looked at me quizzically. So I went on.

"If, with factors as positive and distinguishable as the sun, angles, and mathematics, such an error is arrived at by an earnest and sincere young man, where would he come out with factors at once nebulous, abstract, unfixed, and volatile?

"Had the captain done the calculating, he would have viewed the same sun and used the same sextant. But his result would have been different.

"You need more experience. Experience gives a man some things which are hard to explain. Experience gives gristle and substance to one's impulses. It gives them direction and control. Experience keeps decisions from careening off at wrong and inconsistent tangents. It gives conclusions specific gravity.

"For instance, only experience can acquaint a man with the actuality of the muscular soreness which will likely result from a first horseback ride.

"A young man schooled in the theory of operating in any one of our sections can be told what a holiday rush is like in our business, but until he experiences the terrific, day-after-day pressure of geared-up activity and the necessity for faultless co-ordination of numerous complex functions, he simply cannot grasp it.

"It is so with many things which must be experienced."

IRRIGATION GOES BEGGING AS PWA TURNS TO POWER

Issue Behind Resignation of Platte Officials.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

North Platte, Neb., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—High officials of the Sutherland PWA project who recently resigned say one cause of dissension was the fact they regarded irrigation for farmers on old homesteads more important than hydro-electric development.

The hydroelectric development now has bloomed into a proposal for a state wide power monopoly, a little TVA, by the projected purchase by three major Platte river districts of private public utilities at a hypothetical price of $100,000,000, the first step to be acquiring of the Western Public Service company of Scotts Bluff by the Sutherland district for $7,585,000. Some critics here say the government, to a degree is using the methods of holding companies which it has been assailing.

Views Scene of Desolation.

Donald D. Price, resigned engineer, announced today the district will be ready for operation Dec. 15, when he leaves. The siphon which broke twice has been repaired.

A tour of the project by this writer showed the enterprise a scene of desolation.

Resigning directors reproach PWA for being slow in giving more funds to the enterprise, on which $10,185,000 already has been expended. The board has been asking $1,200,000 more.

The uprisers say PWA has criticized the district for defaults, and they exhibit letters from Harry Williams, resigned president, and John Hogan, former electric consultant, saying continued operation of the project rests with PWA and more funds.

A. F. Buechler, resigned director, says PWA dawdled in giving money at critical times in order to exert pressure for the power end of the project in an attempt by the federal government to take complete control not only of this district but of the whole Platte valley.

"To some," says Buechler, "it looks almost as if the PWA was trying to wreck the district rather than trying to save it."

Water Found Insufficient.

Water for crops from the muddy Platte is a big part of the controversy. Construction of the Pathfinder reservoir in Wyoming in 1910, the Guernsey reservoir in 1927, and the starting of the Casper-Alcova project in recent years has provided for an immense storage of Platte waters in Wyoming. Wyoming and western Nebraska have been building up farming, but the water storage has caused loss to the irrigating canals of the lower Platte.

A fact finding committee found in 1933 the yearly diversion between Guernsey, Wyo., and Keystone, Neb., was one and a half million acre feet, used to reclaim 230,000 acres in Wyoming and western Nebraska. The return flow to the North Platte from these irrigated areas was placed at one million acre feet.

Eight canals northeast of North Platte, which cost the farmers 3 million dollars and irrigated 150,000 acres, were not getting water enough to mature a crop and raise beets and potatoes. Kearney, oldest water right, is as far as these ditches go.

When the Sutherland project first was organized it was primarily an irrigation project to provide water for these canals and for lands already highly developed and improved. It was not a land reclamation proposal.

Easy Money Changes Picture.

The project would have been impossible with private capital, but with easy money in sight from the federal government it was different. The district, composed of Keith, Lincoln, Dawson, Buffalo, and Hall counties, went after funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Later, after reorganization under the 1933 state law as a power and irrigation district, it was the first of the three major Platte river projects approved by PWA. Army engineers before had turned thumbs down. It is managed by an elected board of nine directors.

Driving to Ogallala, gem of the Platte valley, the traveler comes to the diversion dam across the North Platte, west of Keystone, first item in the project. This simply diverts the water into a canal.

At the outlet came one of the troubles. Sheeting was driven down to the Brule clay. Later the water seeped through a fault in the clay and burst back into the river below. Two days ago workers were driving new sheeting near the gates.

Soil Is Treacherous.

From the dam the water is diverted into a supply canal running to the Sutherland reservoir, thirty-three miles away. The canal winds through the sand hills, so meandering that it seems the longest distance between two points. The soil is treacherous. The hills look like clay, but instead are fine sand, hardpacked. The wind cleaves off the bank. At the bottom of the empty canal are two feet or more of debris. In some sections concrete lining has been shot by an air gun to hold the banks intact. In spots the concrete is buckling.

The canal keeps winding around to keep up the water head in the hills, for the river falls some 220 feet in thirty miles. At Paxton the water shoots into a 14 foot concrete siphon which runs under the South Platte river. This was where the main trouble came. When the water was turned in, an ice gorge formed at the south end of the siphon.

Breakages Occur Twice.

On Feb. 25 it backed the water up, undermined the siphon, and washed out the first barrel of the siphon, which is built like a string of sewer pipes, concrete poured over forms. The engineering experts looked it over and the break was rebuilt.

Then on March 30 the siphon broke again. There was an investigation. One explosives expert leaned toward the theory dynamite was used. An army engineer sent from Washington took an opposite view.

Whoever was right, the ground looks treacherous. Board engineers say it melts in water almost like sugar, a problem to overcome. Experts looked it over, and the break has been rebuilt. Two days ago, in the bleak wind, a steam shovel was covering the siphon. It seemed to be scooping up earth that was little more than dust.

Engineers say the torsion when water flows through the tube is a strain needing heavy anchorage. They liken it to a garden hose wriggling over the lawn when the faucet is turned on with no one holding the nozzle.

Sutherland reservoir two days ago was decorated with no fishing or boating signs, but the only activity was that of tumble weeds racing with the snow over dry land in the bleak winter landscape. From the reservoir, which will store 180,000 acre feet of water, stretches the outlet canal, twenty-two miles long, which empties into a regulating reservoir four miles south of this city. Thence the water goes to the power house with a head of 205 feet, and thence into the river.

Confesses Shooting

(Story in adjoining column.)

BANDIT RETURNS FOR HAT; HELD IN FATAL SHOOTING

Young Victim Dies After Identifying Parolee.

A paroled bicycle thief whose ambitions led him into other forms of crime confessed late yesterday that he shot a mother and her son in their grocery at 1121 Madison street, Oak Park, Wednesday night. Early this morning, less than 10 hours after the confession, the son, Raymond Sedlack, 20 years old, died of his wounds in the Oak Park hospital.

The young parolee-gunman, Paul Reeder, 18 years old, now faces a possible murder charge. His confession came after he had been identified by both Sedlack and his mother.

"I guess I wanted to be 'a big shot,'" he said. "The only things I was arrested for before were little thefts, mostly of bicycles."

Returns for Hat; Seized.

Reeder's arrest came about because he returned to the scene of his crime—the Sedlack grocery. He wanted to recover his hat, lost during the shooting.

Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park police said Reeder was sentenced to St. Charles reformatory twice for small thefts. The last time was in 1934. He was paroled six months ago and went to the west coast. On his way back to Chicago he bought a pistol at Cheyenne, Wyo.

Reeder said he returned to the scene of the robbery because he guessed—correctly—that police were on the lookout for a hatless youth or might learn his identity through the hat he had left behind. Mingling in the crowd at the store, he looked for a chance to pick up the hat and get away. A reporter saw him fingering some scratches on his face, received in the scuffle with Sedlack, and he was seized.

Locks Door on Robber.

When Reeder first entered the store, Mrs. Rose Sedlack, 46 years old, noticed he was carrying a gun and locked the front door behind him. At the same time her son leaped on the intruder, who shot him in the throat. Firing wildly, Reeder shot Mrs. Sedlack in the arm and side, unlocked the door, and fled.

Parolee Reeder lived with foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Buckler, 2612 North Moody avenue.

"Since he came to live with us, Reeder has given us much trouble," Buckler said. Reeder also used the names Buckler and Butler, he told police.

Engineer Collapses and Dies While Playing Golf

While playing golf with two friends Thanksgiving afternoon, Charles Hartman, 55 years old, an engineer in the experimental department of International Harvester company, collapsed and died at the Elmgate country club, Glenview. A son, Charles Jr., who is a student at Purdue university, was notified by Indiana state police. Hartman lived at 3120 North Ashland avenue.

WASTED TALENT, WASTED TIME OF STUDENTS SHOWN

Few Go to College; Many of Them Fail.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Two recent surveys into the actual results of present day high school methods of education furnish, in connection with a Chicago survey just made public, a significant body of factual material upon which the proposed changes in the Chicago high schools, the new emphasis upon a combination of academic and vocational study, may be evaluated.

A WPA survey of the Elgin high schools shows that of 1,476 graduates from 1933 to 1937, 1,192, or 81 per cent, are working in factories, business, and stores. This reflects the situation in the Chicago industrial center, where 80 per cent of the pupils are sent early into working life and 20 per cent go on to academic or professional careers. The Elgin figures show that only 303 of the 1,476 total went on in colleges and universities.

The new Chicago plan contemplates an increasing concentration of facilities for education upon the 20 per cent now passing out of school into the lower brackets of the commercial world and into the factories.

Half Fail in Colleges.

An important study in student achievement at the University of Minnesota made by Dr. John B. Johnston, dean and emeritus professor of the college of science, literature, and arts, has just been published under the title "Scholarship and Democracy." This shows that of the 1931 and 1932 freshmen in this school 52 per cent never made successful students. They were not adapted for it or had not been properly prepared.

Another interesting finding by Dr. Johnston is that showing the comparison in scholarship success between children of the well-to-do and children of the poor. Of the 1931-'35 group of students 58 per cent of the children of the poor were successful, while only 42 per cent of the children of the well-to-do could be so classed. It was found further that 1,300 federal aid students who entered the school in 1936-'37 made the highest percentage of student success. They were two to one in ability over those who came from the well-to-do families.

In writing of the meaning of this and other facts in the Minnesota survey, Dr. Johnston emphasizes the fundamental importance in education of realizing the inborn difference between individuals, the current misconceptions about equality, which may be political but is never biological.

Quality Can't Be Altered.

"The individual character," he says, "is the fixed quality which can only be cultivated, not radically changed. The work of the schools is to discover the nature of the individual child, to find occupations suited to his interests and abilities, to help him to learn to work effectively in such occupations and to cooperate with his fellow citizens in their public duties.

"An intelligent society would insist that the expensive facilities of its higher institutions of learning and the energies of the scholars in their faculties be used primarily for the education of the students who are most competent to lead society in its most difficult relations." [The Minnesota survey indicates that those most fit are to be found among the poor. The loss to society among this 80 per cent who pass out early from the portals of formal education must be tremendous, and a way must be found to salvage it. Even the ancient Incas used to select their superior ones for education in leadership, as the Nazis of Germany are doing today.]

"The long standing practice of keeping children in school, away from actual life, and busied with academic studies, has never been sound educational policy because it is not good nerve physiology," Dr. Johnston continues. "Periods of aimless and listless living, without drive or hard work, leave millions of these synapses unused [a synapse is the point of contact between two nerve cells]. They deteriorate or even become aborted.

Play and Study Not Enough.

"In order to make efficient men and women with well equipped nervous systems, free from corroded synapses, the educational procedure should include from the age of 10, 12, or 14 years an actual participation in normal productive processes, in addition to active play and serious academic studies."

Mass education schools are often torture chambers, Dr. Johnston says.

"It is not equality," he continues, "to require the same studies in mathematics for a boy who takes to symbolic reasoning as a duck takes to water and for another boy whose talent for mathematics is almost nil.

"More than half of the students who enter this college are unfitted for its work or for the work of the professional schools which depend on professional training in this college.

"The pass to which we have come demands the formation of several kinds of schools to serve different purposes, including preparation for college as one among several purposes.

"The first step in the situation now existing should be to provide schools suitable for more than 90 per cent of high school graduates who do not become successful college students. This means technological, commercial, agricultural, and other types of schools to prepare young people for the occupations they will enter. It is not necessary to give a try at college to more than twice the number that will succeed."

Paralysis Victim

James Helmer, who was stricken in Stevens Point, Wis., with his father, Dr. P. A. Helmer of Kewanee, Ill., and Nurse Lucille Bosley, at St. Luke's hospital. The youth was brought here by special train and placed in this iron lung.

After nearly a day in an iron lung in St. Luke's hospital, James Helmer, 23 years old, an infantile paralysis victim, smiled happily this morning as physicians reported his case had improved slightly. The youth, student football manager last year at Marquette university, Milwaukee, Wis., was brought here early yesterday in a chartered train from Stevens Point, Wis. Seven minutes after his arrival at the Grand Central station he was placed in the hospital respirator.

As his condition improved, his spirits rose. He grinned at his father, Dr. P. A. Helmer, a Kewanee, Ill., dentist, and greeted his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Helmer, and his sister, Harriet, 28 years old, with a "Hello, there!" when they arrived at the hospital from Kewanee late yesterday.

Helmer was stricken with the disease Tuesday.

AWAIT REACTION OF TRANSIT LINES ON UNIFICATION

Kelly Says Next Move Is Up to Companies.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday that the next step toward a settlement of Chicago's traction problem is for representatives of the companies operating transit facilities here to state definitely if they are ready to do business under the modernization plan completed by city engineers last Monday.

The final report of the city engineers, headed by Philip Harrington, special engineer for the city council's local transportation committee, has been made available to the traction interests. Engineering, financial, and legal stafs representing the operating and ownership interests are now making studies of the 400 page document.

May Give Views Next Week.

It was indicated by company interests yesterday that reactions to the plan will be forthcoming within the next week. The program provides for complete rehabilitation of all facilities, conversion of part of the elevated system into superhighways, and the construction of downtown subways.

If the transit companies are in agreement as to the feasibility of the city plan or a modification of it, Mayor Kelly declared, it will then be up to the financial interests to work out a basis under which a unification can be effected.

Action Possible in 60 Days.

"There is no reason why those two phases of the settlement cannot be worked out within sixty days if the companies are favorable to the city plan," Mayor Kelly asserted. "It will then be up to the council to prepare and approve a new ordinance. The final step will be for the voters to act on the proposition."

The Abbott committee, representing security holders of the four companies comprising the surface lines system, is scheduled to report to Judge Wilkerson in federal district court Dec. 6 as to its attitude toward the city's demand for unification and modernization.

TEN DAYS ELAPSE WITHOUT A CASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Chicago has had no new cases of infantile paralysis nor have any deaths occurred from this cause in the last ten days, Dr. Heman Bundesen, president of the board of health, reported yesterday. He said this is the first time since last July in which an immunity period of a week's duration has occurred.

For the week ending Nov. 20, Dr. Bundesen announced the following new cases and deaths in important communicable diseases:

	Cases.	Deaths.
Gonorrhea	21	0
Influenza	8	7
Measles	70	1
Meningitis, epidemic	3	1
Pneumonia	134	35
Scarlet fever	102	0
Syphilis	248	2
Tuberculosis	57	25
Typhoid fever	2	0

All cases of communicable diseases must by law be reported to the health department.

INTERNATIONAL STOCK SHOW TO OPEN TOMORROW

BY HOMER NEISZ.

Prize cattle, hogs, sheep, and horses from the best herds and flocks in forty-two states and five Canadian provinces are being groomed in their stalls, pens, and booths in the International amphitheater and adjoining buildings at the stockyards for the opening at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning of the 38th annual International Live Stock exposition. Nearly 13,000 animals have been entered, according to B. H. Heide, manager of the exposition.

Alexander Ritchie.

The last of more than 5,000 samples for the 19th annual hay and grain show to be held in connection with the stock show were put in place yesterday.

Judging Event Today.

Owing to the crowded program of events the noncollegiate stock judging contest has been scheduled for today. The contestants will be grammar and high school pupils from twenty-three states, each state being represented by a team of three judges. There is one girl on the list—Ruth Eaton from Wyoming. The three top ranking individuals will be awarded agricultural college scholarships by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

A feature of tomorrow's program will be the intercollegiate live stock judging contest in which teams from twenty-four state agricultural colleges and one from the Ontario Agricultural college of Guelph, Ont., will compete. The winning animals in the junior live stock feeding contest also will be selected tomorrow, with Alexander Ritchie, manager of the Royal farm at Windsor, England, picking the junior grand champion steer.

King's Manager Arrives.

Mr. Ritchie arrived in Chicago yesterday. The farm he manages was originally the property of Queen Victoria and is inherited by each successive British ruler.

A ceremony in tribute to the exposition has been arranged for noon today at which Mayor Kelly will unveil a bronze plaque, marking the cowpath in Chicago's loop. A portion of the path, on Monroe street about 100 feet west of Clark street, has been preserved.

Horse shows will be held in the amphitheater each evening during the exposition, with matinées on Sunday, Wednesday, Friday, and the closing Sunday.

THE TROUBLE WITH MINNESOTA.

Patrick J. Corcoran, A. F. of L. labor leader in Minneapolis, was shot from ambush a day or two after report had been spread in the city that some labor leaders would be assassinated. There are two aspects to this crime. In one it appears as a part of the conflict to which labor has been exposed not only by feudalized chiefs struggling with each other but by unprincipled racketeers whose only interest in unionism is the profit they can gain by terrorism. In the other aspect the crime concerns Minnesota peculiarly and particularly.

Why does Minnesota present a pattern of criminality peculiar to it? Many citizens must be interested in the answer and all should be. The state has been a victim for years of a system of politics which has gone from one extreme to another. In the older days a group of men whose real intelligence was far less than their shrewdness, who were wealthy and influential, thought they could govern in their own interests by controling politics, state officials, and the channels of publicity. If they had been intelligent rather than shrewd they would have known that the overthrow of their combination would have consequences just as unethical and more violent than the conditions they imposed. And so it turned out.

Minnesota became the field for radicalism which adopted the bad practices of the old régime and invented some worse ones of its own. That radicalism gained the support of people easily convinced that lawlessness, disregard of essential rights and outrages committed against them were the proper weapons to use for social betterment. Unscrupulous radicals arose on this tide of feeling and the principal cities of the state became centers of criminal activity with political protection.

The new régime and the old had in common the policy of suppression. The new bosses outdid the old. They put a law through the legislature enabling them to stop any newspaper printing disclosures of corruption and criminality in office. In Near vs. Minnesota the United States Supreme court, in a case brought by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, declared the law unconstitutional. After that the corruptionists, the lawless elements, resorted to assassination. Howard Guilford and Walter Liggett, editors of small papers, were murdered. The assassins were not found and were not punished.

The radical government of Minnesota has set up the principle that lawlessness used in disputes of employer and employés is a proper method of adjustment, and from that established principle it would follow that in any dispute crime may be the easiest and most conclusive method of gaining success. Of course, all other forms of lawlessness and vice, including kidnaping, take encouragement from such conditions, and Minnesota is a distressed state.

THE WATER POWER MIRAGE.

A century ago many of the presidents of our embryonic railways were faced with a problem. Should the iron roadway be operated with horses or the new-fangled steam locomotives that were struggling for recognition? Power efficiency was about equal, and the horse was certainly more popular with the public because of the frequency of steam boiler explosions. The locomotive was generally chosen, however, because, while there was little chance of improvement in animal muscles, steam had a future. The whole country is facing a similar choice today. The competitors are hydro-electric power, steam, and the Diesel.

The subject was recently discussed at the Peoria joint engineering conference by Mr. Frank R. Innes of the Electrical World in a most interesting manner. Avoiding comparisons of Diesel and steam he made the statement that hydro-electric installations are now delivering 95 per cent of the power available, while in the case of steam turbines 70 per cent of the heat and power contained within the fuel is being lost in the condensing process. Notwithstanding comparative efficiency ratios of 95 and 30 per cent, there is a practical parity in the cost of delivered energy, so that, unless we are going to discount science and the future, steam or Diesel today has the same potential advantage over water power as the locomotive had over a horse a hundred years ago.

Governmental planning for power requirements to be financed over a period of thirty to fifty years has another counterpart in railway service. At the turn of the century, with tremendous increases in passenger travel in sight, the companies built huge stations and other facilities. As a Pennsylvania official remarked on completion of the Manhattan station: "It is thirty years ahead of New York." Measured by the same standards it is now fifty years ahead of requirements merely because nobody thought of the automobile, the bus, and the trailer. Is there not a strong possibility that a small, efficient power unit of the future will give the home and the factory energy independence just as the family automobile has within the last twenty years given us transportation independence?

Politicians who are saturating the country with a theory that water power is cheap power are dishonest on a half dozen counts. They are exploiting the popular fallacy that any water power is neccessarily cheap power, and concealing the fact that all economically situated waterfalls have already been harnessed. The new ones proposed by the government will be expensive even in their own class. They are discounting the tremendous advances that have been made in steam and the Diesel and hiding the fact that water power remains in the race largely because it eliminates coal miners' wages and other employment engaged in the production, transportation, and distribution of fuels.

WILL THIS WAR EGG HATCH?

The war in the eggshell is Japan against Russia. Two expanding countries have had a common frontier. Furthermore, it was the frontier in the line of their expansion. They also have come to represent conflicting social and political ideas. That is why there is more heat now than at the time of the Japanese-Russian war of 1904. Enough heat will hatch the egg.

World proletarianism requires that the soviets fight Japan in China. Japan has offered the war. Prudence has withdrawn Russia thus far. The Japanese calculated the time nicely. Until about a year ago there was a probability that the Chinese would widen the gulf between them and the soviets. The Chinese dictator, Chiang Kai-shek, began his career in coöperation with Moscow. Later there was a break.

Chiang turned against the Chinese Reds, who were established in the eastern provinces, and conducted five costly and bloody campaigns against them, finally driving them into the far western provinces. Their military forces made a 12,000 mile march of astonishing hardihood and were able to establish themselves in the territory in which they have since been dominant.

Coincidentally with this development in China Russia under Stalin changed the policy of the soviets from world revolution to socialism in one country. That is, the ruling communists actually or ostensibly accepted a new charter of faith—that it was possible for a socialistic state to be created and exist in a world mainly capitalistic, and that world revolution was not the absolute requirement of their own existence. Peace was the essential for the development of the communist nation. What would happen when it came of age would be another matter.

The soviets abandoned the Chinese revolution. Chiang continued to conduct warfare against the Reds in the west, but Japan took Manchuria and began its forward movement in the Chinese northern provinces. Chang, the Chinese war lord in Manchuria, was killed, but young Chang, his son, became the protagonist of Chinese opposition to the Japanese.

We now come to an incident which could have no place in any occidental national scene in which the future of a great country was involved. Chang, the anti-Japanese crusader, captured Chiang, carried him away and held him prisoner to bring him into consultation with representatives of the Chinese Reds of the west and of the violent anti-Japanese elements. Chiang in his captivity was offered the support of the Chinese communists and his restoration to unquestioned power if he would consent to lead a unified China against Japan.

He consented, returned from captivity with his captor Chang, who voluntarily offered himself for any punishment the government might see fit to visit upon him. He was formally condemned but sent abroad with a large sum of money for traveling expenses. Chiang went into the mountains to purify his soul. That was the moment which Japan regarded as decisive and its blows began to fall. Russia made a treaty with China, ominous merely in its import, because its terms seem to bear no relation to the situation in which China found itself. The agreement merely stipulated that neither nation would give aid to an aggressor against the other.

Japan's momentous opportunity was clearly established by certain facts. After more than ten years of conflict the Chinese Reds and the Nationalists were reconciled. Chiang's modern army had not yet reached the proportions and effectiveness later to be expected of it. Russia itself had fallen into a panic of terrorism in which month by month the old pillars of communistic government were being accused and executed. The army had suffered a purge which cost the heads of Marshal Tukhachevsky and seven other generals. Hundreds of workers, commissars, executives, and technicians were being shot on charges of wreckage in industry, transportation, agriculture, and finance.

The fantastic melodrama of Russia today was being presented to the world, and Japan, with its numerous agents, fully aware of the depth and spread of the terror, naturally concluded that the time was ripe to strike. It might never come again. There was the anti-communistic alliance with Germany, itself born of the Russian terror. Italy was ready to adhere and later did. Interference by other nations was not to be dreaded. They were tied up. The Brussels conference only proved the forecast.

Japan offers Russia the war in outspoken language. Gen. Araki, former minister of war and member of the advisory council, says it probably will be necessary to strike directly at Russia to eliminate communism in the far east. The soviet ambassador to Tokio has given Foreign Minister Hirota his government's written protest against that statement. War in China might make or break Japan. It might also break Stalin. It might mean another Russian revolution. Heads which have been lost are warnings to the survivors.

FIFE AND DRUM.

[New York Times.]

Peace lovers will be glad to learn that military music is on its way out. From army maneuvers in Texas it is reported that tentative plans have cut down the number of bands in an infantry division from eight to one, and even this may be abolished. Peace lovers have felt that the martial spirit feeds on parades. The heart of a parade is obviously the band with or without the drum major.

But, of course, it is open to doubt whether abolition of the marching fifes and drums and brasses really means an end of the music that sets the feet to beating time and drowns out the grim details of the trenches. We may still hear the band play, over the radio. The whole army is pretty well mechanized by now, and there is no reason why its music should not be. In fact, radio's martial strains will go where the band musicians today do not go, into the very trenches.

What could be more characteristic of our topsy-turvy civilization than a forty-five-mile-an-hour tank going into action to radio music like any taxi driver on Park avenue?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

YOU MAY THINK, after that Thanksgiving dinner, that you never want to hear of food again, but you'll be hungry by this evening and glad, perhaps, we decided to tell you today about the Yar. It isn't really a Russian restaurant, as many think, but a continental one, in which a French chef, a German one, a Russian one, and five others skilled in English, American, Scandinavian, and Italian cooking get along quite peaceably as they wait to whip you up the native dishes of any land in Europe. The young giant in the long blue marshal's coat and the red sash who opens the door isn't even a duke, much less a grand duke or an admiral. In fact, he's Ed Bye, a Scandinavian, who lives on Seminary avenue and spends most of his time polishing those boots when he's home.

Col. Yaschenko, generalissimo of the Yar, is an ex-officer of the Russian imperial army. He recommends Russian food, particularly stuffed breast of chicken, Kiev style. Borsch à la russe, he thinks, is a superb soup when you add the sour cream with the touch of a connoisseur, but he concedes that consomme Marie Stuart's hard to beat.

He named his Yar after a Moscow restaurant that endured for an entire century. The word, he says, isn't Russian, but is gypsy, and means Playground. The wooden scrollwork that covers his false windows and his lanterns he did himself with a jigsaw. The eagles and the fantastic designs that surround them aren't Russian imperial insignia, he confides, but patterns he copied from the oldest of Russian fairy tale books. His great fireplace, however, is authentic, he says, and direct from Russia came the hand wrought copper plates that hang upon his walls. The waiters in this Walton street restaurant are quite as elegant in their Russian blouses as are the diners who come in evening dress.

WINTER VOICES.

To walk in silence, when the snow is falling,
Through wooded arches of a country lane,
The heart can hear a thousand voices calling—
But if you answer . . . it will be in vain.

For winter voices, though with breath for calling
Are deaf as echoes when the silence speaks.
And we must listen when the snow is falling
With fingers to our ears and palms to cheeks.

SNOW BLESSED.

Trees are bleached and shrunken and bare. The furrows and wrinkles of age lie upon the face of the landscape. The charm of spring and summer's splendor have departed. Nature cannot stay the devastation of Time. But she atones. She makes amends by spreading a mantle of snow upon them. Behold, overnight, the features of wood and field are softened by it, and assume an aspect of serene and chastened loveliness that the exuberant seasons of youth could not excel. Contemplative silver-haired old men and women, at peace with the world and with themselves.

REDUCING DESIRABLE BUT DIFFICULT.

THE one who ventures the statement that obesity is a simple problem has an untenable thesis to defend. The fact is that it presents as complex a situation as medicine is called upon to face. Furthermore, a plan designed for relief will not be uniformly successful. It will "work" with 30 or 40 per cent of a given group and fail utterly with the balance. The only explanation is that there are several factors which enter into the production of fat or prevent its combustion by the body. Of course, inactivity indicates that we use less oxygen and hence burn up less food.

Inertia, therefore, may be regarded as the starting point of fat storage. Of course it is desirable that those who are convalescing should return to health speedily—but in prescribing rest as a means to this end we must be careful to insist on the use of the muscles before the normal level has been attained. Carelessness in this matter may be fraught with disaster. The first thing we know the passive, comfortable person may be ten pounds overweight, then fifteen, then twenty.

When this state is reached and activity is resumed the very excess poundage proves a deterrent, because it requires more energy than the victim can muster. Fatigue may come quickly, because the bony skeleton and the muscles are obliged to "tote" around unneeded avoirdupois. There comes a natural reluctance to try, because of the feeling of exhaustion. But we know that the more the patient relaxes the more he gains—that is, when plenty of food is consumed. Few are able to drive themselves over the hill with sufficient force to begin using their own depots of stored up fuel.

There is just one way that corpulency can be acquired, namely, through the digestive tract. How else can fat reach the areas beneath the skin unless it is carried there by the circulation? This being the case, we are obliged to consider most cases as due to but two elements: [1] too much food; [2] too little work.

Of course disease conditions must be reckoned with, such as too little thyroid [myxedema] and other glandular disturbances involving the ovaries and the pituitary. By and large, however, the greater the amount of mental and physical sluggishness the larger the deposits of adipose tissue.

Many fat people are physical martyrs. In other words, they rarely will possess a sense of well-being, because extra weight places so much of a burden upon the spinal column, the sacroiliac joints, and the arches of the feet. Backaches and pains during or after walking are only natural corollaries. In addition, there may be an overload on the heart, because blood must be supplied to all the tissues, and we observe a far greater tendency to diabetes, nephritis [kidney inflammation], and arthritis [joint troubles] among this class.

But there are some who will determine to save their physical constitutions for perhaps a better day, and for this class a diet can be planned which, if adhered to, will be helpful in a high percentage of cases. It has been observed that as weight is lost exercise can be increased. The patient feels better, movements are less tiresome and the accompanying sense of exhaustion disappears gradually. Three substantial meals of simple foods, bulky in character, but not highly nourishing, are demanded. These can be arranged without destroying appetite and without interfering with the zest which every one should possess at mealtime.

A program should occupy several months, as it is never desirable to take weight off too rapidly. A loss of two pounds per week may occur for the first three weeks. Thereafter one to one and one-half pounds is regarded as the maximum.

A few balanced, low calorie diets will be sent on receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope.

GEOGRAPHICAL TONGUE.

M. P. writes: I am a sufferer with what my doctor calls "geographical tongue." Will you please describe this condition?

REPLY.

Thickened raw areas appear at intervals—separated by valleys—so that the tongue looks like a relief map of Switzerland, Ethiopia, or Hindustan. The surface is usually glazed and red. The peeling spreads in a ringlike manner—giving the appearance of boundary lines on a map. It must be kept unusually clean, as débris will collect in the cracks and bring on inflammation. The cause is associated usually with some type of indigestion.

TUBERCULOSIS.

J. S. writes: Is tuberculosis sometimes acquired by leading the wrong kind of life? Is it hereditary? Is the form of the disease where the neck is affected known as scrofula?

REPLY.

Tuberculosis is acquired by infection with the tubercle bacillus and in no other way. The disease itself is not hereditary but a constitutional weakness may be inherited. Scrofula is a tuberculous condition of the glands of the neck. A skin condition known as scrofuloderma may come from infection of a gland or bone with tubercle bacilli.

FLATULENCE.

T. E. writes: Is gas on the stomach sometimes the result of poor elimination? Can it be cured?

REPLY.

Bad eating habits [air swallowing], errors in diet, and constipation may cause flatulence [gas]. The condition may be cured by proper mastication, slow eating, avoiding constipation, and refraining from gas forming foods. We have leaflets on constipation and gas producing foods. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for these.

DAYLIGHT SAVING AS AN ACCIDENT PREVENTIVE.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—I firmly believe that the recent I. C. suburban crash, as well as many other accidents directly attributed to the rush of trafic in the dark between 5:30 and 6:30 each evening, would not have occurred if our city had not voted against permanent daylight saving.

Ninety per cent of the working people of this city are en route between home and place of business between 7:30 and 9 a. m. the morning and 4:30 and 6 in the evening. If this time were moved ahead one hour at both ends it would remove the main flux of trafic from complete darkness to the day and twilight zone.

A newspaper could do much toward saving lives of its many readers and preventing many accidents by waging a campaign for all business houses to open and close one hour earlier during the time we do not have daylight saving.

CITIZENSHIP TRAINING.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—My children are taking sustained active interest in the student socialization program of their school. At our evening meal they talk to their dad and mother about student councils, committees on law and order, school elections, campaigns against vandalism and window breakage, and also about the fine assembly programs they are taking part in.

I believe if other parents would take time enough to talk things over with their children they would discover what a fine program of good citizenship the superintendent of schools is carrying on in our public schools. A. G. FISCHER.

FIGHTING IN FOREIGN WARS.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—I was greatly surprised today in reading the article published in your column by Mrs. Vinton L. Sisson in which she definitly states:

The American people will never again consent to the sending of a single American boy to engage in a foreign battle.

I am a descendant of an immigrant and, of course, cannot compare my standards of Americanism with those of persons who are descendants of the early Americans, but I have always believed that no matter where my country fights, whom my country fights, or when my country fights, it will be my duty to fight. I dread to think of it, but I am certain my son would also believe it to be his obligation to serve in a like manner.

I do not condone war, but it is time that the various patriotic groups stress the thought that America is supreme and that, if necessary to fight a war, it is better to fight it on territory belonging to others than to have the ruin and devastation in your own country. As an example, France—now twenty years later—is still rebuilding.

Anyway, they are very beautiful and do great credit to your picture section of styles. FRANCES G. SIMMONS.

LAW VIOLATORS IN UNIFORM.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Imagine my surprise on Sunday morning, driving southwest on Ogden avenue behind a police car, to find it passing road hogs on their right and also crossing the center line to get past them.

Would it not be better if the police compelled the observance of the laws than broke it themselves? LA GRANGE.

CONCERT note of 1937: As Rachmaninoff was bowing after playing the Beethoven Concerto in C major with the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra a few evenings ago the timpani player popped up and snapped some candid camera shots of the great pianist and composer.

Note—Musicians at Midnight—Wisecrack.

* *

YOUR faithful scribe, sitting beside Eugene Goossens, conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony, and across from Rudolph Ganz and Mrs. Otto Eitel and Hans Lange at midnight supper, wasn't up to a great deal of the technical musical talk that rippled excitedly back and forth—about the horns introduced into a certain passage that were not written in originally, or ascending fifths, or transitional passages with material for flutes. But we did snag a story or two for you.

One, given rise to by Marek Weber and his orchestra playing Dvorak's "Humoresque" and afterward Strauss' "The Blue Danube," was a sympathetic little tale about a dinner in Prague given in honor of Mrs. Johann Strauss. Musician friends had gathered to do her honor and on one side of her sat Dvorak; on the other Brahms. Those present autographed the menu for her, and the composers on either side paid delicate tribute. Dvorak inscribed the first line of "The Blue Danube"; Brahms wrote underneath, "Unfortunately not by Brahms."

* *

THERE was a definitly middle Europe atmosphere about the Boulevard room at the Stevens hotel. Rudolph Reuter and a partner were doing a European style fast waltz about the room, which has tall red hangings and continental luster chandeliers that make it look like a modern version of a royalist room; Richard Tauber, the German singer, in town for an evening on his way to Hollywood, listened to the lovely waltz music from a mezzanine table and watched the dancers with a monocle in his eye; Prof. Ganz of the university at Basle, Switzerland, and brother of the Chicago composer and instructor, was present; there was a buzz of German when the music stopped, and champagne was being served. At one table it was a special champagne cocktail with brandy and cointreau in the champagne.

* *

A DISCUSSION of the general ignorance in Europe of American culture brought forth an interesting bit of data from Mr. Ganz. Mr. Goossens had said that British friends often ask him hilariously where that funny place is he lives [Cincinnati] and if they still have Indians there and do they really have an orchestra. Some one else said that certain European acquaintances had commented, with astonishment, "You mean that in Chicago, that city of gangsters, you really have a symphony orchestra?" Mr. Ganz said that when he arrived in Chicago the first time he had a letter from Busoni, his teacher, to Theodore Thomas, founder of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. During his first conversation with Mr. Thomas the orchestra founder had pointed out that many now famous pieces were played in Chicago long before they were given a hearing in Berlin. Strauss' "Aus Italien" was an example; also Tchaikovsky's Fifth and Sixth symphonies.

HOLIDAY OVER, BUT TURKEY LINGERS ON!

These Clever Disguises Utilize Leftovers.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright, 1937, By The Chicago Tribune.]

Thanksgiving dinner has ended, but the turkey lingers on. His carcass looks gaunt and naked, yet there probably is enough meat left clinging to his bones to foster another party meal.

Strip the bones and save the meat until Sunday, if you like, or serve it to the family or guests tomorrow, or even tonight. Save the bones for soup or discard them. Leftover dressing may be packed into a small, greased ring mold and baked at the time the turkey is served in its new form.

Far from suggesting hash, these turkey recipes give no indication of their leftover origin. They are nice enough to serve even for Mrs. So-and-So, who has fancy notions concerning her own gourmetism.

Curried Turkey

[Serves 6.]

6 tablespoons butter
½ cup minced onion
1 apple, peeled and diced
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced or 1 large can mushrooms
6 cups diced turkey
3 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1¼ teaspoons curry powder
2½ cups turkey stock and top milk or cream

Melt the butter and cook the onion, apple, mushrooms, and turkey in it until onion and apple are cooked, about twelve minutes or so. Remove from heat and add flour, salt, and curry powder, stirring to blend thoroughly. Add liquid [if there is stock left from cooking the giblets, use some of this with the cream; if not, use all cream]. Cook slowly over low heat until thickened. Place over hot water, cover, and cook for fifteen minutes longer in order to blend the flavors well. Add more seasonings if necessary. Serve with hot, dry rice.

Turkey à la Newburg.

[Serves 4.]

¼ cup butter
2 cups turkey, cut in medium pieces
¼ cup mushrooms [optional]
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup cream
3 egg yolks
¼ cup sherry or Madeira wine
Paprika

Cook turkey and mushrooms slowly for several minutes in the butter with salt, white pepper, and half the wine. Add cream and place over hot water to heat thoroughly. Beat egg yolks until light and stir into the hot mixture just a few minutes before serving. Stir and cook for about three minutes longer, but no more, or cream may curdle. Add more seasonings if needed, and remaining wine just before serving. Serve on hot toast points and sprinkle paprika over each serving.

Turkey Creole with Hominy

[Serves 6.]

3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
½ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
½ cup tomato pulp, sieved
1 tablespoon horseradish
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1½ cups diced turkey

Cook green pepper and onion until brown in the butter. Add salt and flour and stir well to blend. Add milk and then tomato pulp, stirring until the mixture reaches simmering, and thickens somewhat. Add horseradish, lemon juice, and turkey, and serve over hot hominy.

LIGHT APPETIZER IS CALLED FOR BY HOLIDAY DINNERS

Richer meats served at holiday dinners demand a light appetizer and a crisp salad. Hors d'oeuvres of crisp celery hearts, ripe olives, and burr pickles, followed by a fruit juice cocktail, are appropriate with a heavy entrée.

For a lighter meal, nothing could be more appropriate than a seafood cocktail. Broken crabmeat or shrimps with a catsup cocktail sauce may be served, followed by consommé. Salmon or tuna fish are inexpensive substitutes for the shrimp.

A salad of greens — lettuce, romaine, endive, or watercress — with a French dressing, or one of its variations, is still the best salad for more or less formal meals. A light fruit salad using fresh fruit, such as avocados, citrus fruit, or apples, is a good substitute.

Dessert is a matter of individual preference. While Europeans prefer fruit, any dessert goes in this country. The only real question in selecting the dessert is to find something that is not so heavy and rich that guests leave the table feeling stuffed.

THANKSGIVING SHOPPERS CLEAR SHELVES OF FOOD

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

In stocking pantries for Thanksgiving dinners served here yesterday Chicagoans practically cleared the shelves, show cases and refrigerators in retail food markets throughout the city and surrounding suburbs. Chicago's big feast reflected the bountiful harvest of practically every kind of crop grown in the nation's fields and gardens. It was a feast of pioneer flavor.

What a feast! Tired workers in the retail stores will not forget it for a long time. They have been hustling around since the store doors were closed Wednesday night restocking their places with fresh foods and marking them with new price tags, ready for the week-end shoppers.

There were only a few turkeys left in the butcher shops. Meat retailers are offering them today and tomorrow at a bargain, several cents a pound under the prices that prevailed during the holiday rush.

Meat prices are bobbing around again. Most kinds of fresh pork have been cut 1 to 2 cents a pound in some shops. Canvassing the shops today and tomorrow will pay. Round and sirloin steaks are off 2 to 3 cents a pound in a few places, while some other butchers have put all steaks up 2 to 5 cents a pound.

Beef pot roast, the reliable economy cut, is down 2 cents a pound in many stores. Cured ham is also on sale at 4 cents a pound less than a week ago in a few places.

Bacon Prices Higher.

Bacon has been marked up 2 to 3 cents a pound in many shops. Fresh lamb chops are up 4 to 7 cents a pound in a few retail markets. Standing and rolled beef rib roasts are 2 to 3 cents higher in a few shops. Frying chickens are up 1 cent a pound in some and 2 cents off in other shops.

Many stores are offering packaged butter at 3 to 4½ cents a pound under last week's prices, but some stores have made no changes.

Several kinds of eating and cooking apples are slightly cheaper. Spinach is generally lower. Dry onions, rutabagas, green peas, carrots and beets are down slightly in some stores.

Egg Prices Irregular.

Egg prices still are wobbly. Storage eggs are up a penny, and other grades are off 1 to 5 cents a dozen in some places. Many retail merchants have made no changes.

Fresh tomatoes have taken a big jump. Florida tomatoes are 4 to 6 cents a pound higher, and hothouse tomatoes rose even more.

Cabbage, head lettuce and celery are higher in most stores. Bananas and cauliflower are up in a few places.

On the wholesale market the best grades of beef dropped 50 cents to $1 a hundred pounds. Heavy beef remained about the same compared with last week, according to federal reports from the Union Stockyards. Fresh lamb is also off 50 cents to $1, and fresh pork is 50 cents a hundred lower.

On the live stock market farmers are getting 25 cents a hundredweight more for their best steers, others are steady to 25 cents a hundred lower. The week's top price on steers was $17 a hundredweight. Hogs are 5 to 10 cents lower than a week ago, with the week's top $8.15 a hundred. Fat lambs are up 25 to 35 cents a hundred with the top this week reaching $9.35. Mutton is 25 cents a hundred lower.

The following fresh vegetables are higher than last week on the wholesale market: Asparagus, broccoli, cabbage, bunch carrots, celery, head lettuce, dry onions, green peppers, and fresh tomatoes. The higher prices resulted from brisk holiday trading. Wholesale prices are lower on oranges, grapes, and cauliflower.

MEN BEYOND 30 BEST BETS FOR GIRLS OVER 20

Ames, Iowa, Nov. 25.—(AP)—To the depression-thwarted maiden who is still unwed in her middle twenties, C. Arnold Anderson, Iowa State college sociologist, today offered this advice: Pay special attention to a nice man in his thirties.

There's still hope for the lonesome maid if she hunts for older quarry, Anderson said, advising she doesn't have much chance to regain her boy friend who was 20 when she was. The boy friend still is interested in girls 20 years old, he added.

Anderson based his suggestions on a study of mating he made in collaboration with W. C. McKain, Jr., of Harvard university.

"Apparently men marry much younger women in times of prosperity, because they marry, primarily, for beauty," the sociologist said. "And apparently the reason they marry women more nearly their age in times of depression is that they want women who are more likely to provide congeniality and partnership in meeting all problems."

Twin Babies and Sister to Cross Atlantic Alone

Twin girls, 4 months old, and their sister, 2 years old, changed trains here yesterday on the first lap of a trip to Germany alone. They are Helene, Hertha, and Ann Coelln, daughters of Henry Coelln of Davenport, Ia. Their mother died last month and the babies are being sent to their aunt, Mrs. Elsie Gaedje, in Schleswig-Holstein, Germany, for a two year visit.

STATE FUNERAL FOR MacDONALD IN LONDON TODAY

Cruiser Returns His Body from Bermuda.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The body of James Ramsay MacDonald rested tonight in Frognal house, his Hampstead home, just three weeks after he sailed for South America "in search of that most elusive of all forms of happiness—rest."

The British cruiser Apollo anchored off Plymouth at 9 a. m. and the former prime minister's two sons, Malcolm and Alastair, went out in the admiral's barge to meet their sister, Sheila, who returned with the body from Bermuda after the former premier's heart attack on Nov. 9.

The Apollo then steamed into the harbor, where the lord mayor of Plymouth and Admiral Sir Reginald Drax, commander of the Plymouth naval station, and representatives of other services were waiting.

Members of the family accompanied the body to London in a special car attached to the regular Cornish Riviera express. Flags on governments buildings were at half-staf in MacDonald's honor until noon, but were then raised in honor of the birthday of the British king's aunt, Queen Maud of Norway.

The body will remain in Frognal house until it is taken to Westminster abbey for a solemn state funeral at noon tomorrow.

Good Morning!

You may not split your sides watching this one — but you're going to have a mighty good time — because "The Awful Truth" is a mighty good show!

This feature comedy is to be classed generally with such films as "It Happened One Night" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." It's based on a play by Arthur Richman, and tells a tale about two rich, skylarking young married people who, while having a rumpus, decide to divorce one another. . . .

They obtain a ninety day interlocutory decree. . . .

After a ribtickling series of complications involving Mr. Smith, their dog, a madcap heiress, a he man from Oklahoma, a male music teacher, an understanding auntie, the Oklahoma chappie's catty and possessive mamma—and dear knows how many other interested parties!—they decide, just a split second or two before the decree becomes final to — well — here's where the picture must carry on for you.

The story is gay, mirth provoking, and scenes bordering on the risque are handled in cleanly and delicate manner.

This is the first movie in which I have ever cared for Irene Dunne as a comedienne, and she's immense! Plays with humor—and never overplays. She never looked more beautiful, and her clothes are, well, girls —you wish you had them!

Cary Grant makes her a grand teammate. Ralph Bellamy is fun as the Oklahoma prospect. A fine supporting cast lends A-1 bolstering, and the movie has suspense, a song or two, and a number of unexpected twists that keep your interest pulsating.

As a most acceptable holiday eye and earful I can enthusiastically recommend "The Awful Truth."

Calls Webster Quiet Pianist of Rare Skill

BY EDWARD BARRY.

"I've never heard such an awful piece of music played so well!"

This was one of the intermission comments made at Orchestra hall last night immediately after Beveridge Webster, personable young American pianist appearing with the Chicago Symphony orchestra for the first time, had concluded a performance of the solo part of Liszt's A major concerto.

Not to go into greater detail on the subject of the piece itself, whose idiomatic writing and great effectiveness will keep it in the repertoire despite its occasional pompousness and comparative emptiness, Mr. Webster's playing is something to run on about for a sentence or two, at least.

From first to last there was not a single unmusical sound, not even in the bravura passages where the temptation to grow strident is so strong. Tone was limpid and effortless, the whole performance clean, well calculated and fluent. Mr. Webster plays quietly, making no unnecessary gestures. The audience responded cordially.

Hans Lange, conductor of the evening, brought the Samuel Barber Symphony in One Movement to its first Chicago performance. The work of a twenty-seven year old American, the new symphony makes a definitly favorable impression even on an initial hearing.

Eloquent thematic material, superlatively fine instrumentation, a brilliant economy of means and logic of structure—there are the merits which strike one immediately. Quite an impressive list of merits, too. Mr. Barber was present at the performance and was called to the stage to receive the plaudits of the house.

The holiday program opened with Cherubini's overture to "Anacreon," and d'Indy's "Istar" variations, went from that to the concerto and the Barber symphony, and offered the Weingartner transcription of Weber's "Invitation to the Dance" in conclusion.

DOUBLE BILL AT OPERA

BY CECIL SMITH.

The staple double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" was the holiday offering of the Chicago City Opera company last night. Another packed house of young enthusiasts, for whom Miss Helen Howe, supervisor of music in the public schools, has provided these Thursday night performances at half price, responded eagerly to both blood-curdling dramas.

José Luccioni sang the tenor role of Canio in "Pagliacci" for the first time in Chicago, and won a big demonstration after his lament. He projected not only this aria, but the entire rôle, with magnificent force and virile tone, at the same time keeping his characterization of the jealous clown within the bounds of the most exacting taste. Most decidedly his name belongs in any list of good Canios.

The rest of the "Pagliacci" cast was quite adequate. Hilda Burke sang with great charm in the middle register and had her usual difficulties with her top notes. Carlo Morelli was good in a hearty way, singing with torrents of opulent tone, and Giuseppe Cavadore did wonders with his harlequin rôle. The début of Alexander Gray, night club and musical comedy baritone, as Silvio, was marked by a nervousness that made him sing flat and left his tone monotonous and inexpressive.

Rosa Raisa's Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana" is still a mark for other sopranos to shoot at. She did not sing with the ease and freedom she showed in a recent recital, but she succeeded in making all her points tellingly.

Except for Désiré Defrère, the rest of the "Cavalleria" cast was mediocre.

And what is going to be done about the male chorus?

Lovely Dinner Frocks Sell at Modest Prices

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Moderately priced new dinner clothes look twice as expensive as the price tag. Hardened shoppers will blink when the price is mentioned, so you may guess just how distinctive these slim, slinky outfits appear.

There's one of dull clinging crêpe made with a gown with deeply cut neckline, and a brief bolero that is a marvel of swank. The skirt reaches the floor. There's a bit of subtle drapery and chest shirring for the dress. Around the sleeves and the edge of the bolero is effective dusky gold embroidery.

Another jersey dinner outfit comes in a delightful parma violet color. This, too, clings to the streamline, has one of those high bosomed swathed bodices and a long rectangular scarf of the jersey that can be used as a shoulder scarf or as an Egyptian sash effect tied in front.

There are filmy dance or dinner dresses of snow white with the sunburst plaited skirt spattered with rhinestones. The bodice is draped and shirred with a wide belt inset with rhinestone and rubies. Other good buys are the lovely pastel tinted marquisettes, full skirted affairs over crisp taffeta slips. The edge of the deeply cut bodice top is outlined with silver kidskin applique, to match the same sort of outlining on the bolero jacket. These come in yellow, mint green, white, and cloud blue with a new clarety color called black dahlia.

When you know that any of these can be yours for a modest sum around thirty dollars you'll take your choice as fast as you can decide on color.

British to Jam Divorce Courts Under New Law

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Unhappy wives threaten to swamp the divorce courts with applications when A. P. Herbert's "easier divorce" act becomes effective in January.

Solicitors throughout the country are being consulted by an unprecedented number of women who hope that the act, by extending grounds for divorce, will afford them the freedom they have long desired.

Hundreds of wives hope to turn their separation orders into divorce decrees that would enable them to remarry.

The situation has caused some apprehension in official quarters. A question is to be asked in parliament about the provisions for the anticipated increase in applications by poor persons.

A. Hassard-Short, who since 1914 has sat as secretary in the poor persons department of the divorce courts, and has personally dealt with more than 76,000 poor persons' applications, has already planned the reorganization of his department to cope with the divorce rush. Staf and accommodations are being enlarged.

No arrangements have yet been made for speeding up reforms in the divorce courts, apart from the decision to appoint another judge, making the total four.

Suggested reforms have been discussed. It is feared that unless they are promptly carried out the existing machinery will be unable to cope with the divorce rush—certainly during the first six or twelve months.

Two divorce judges—the president, Sir Boyd Merriman, and Mr. Justice Bucknill—have been occupied with appeals from magistrates' orders. The third, Mr. Justice Langton, is faced with a list of thirteen defended cases.

Much of the judges' time is at present taken up with admiralty work—so that divorce petitions are crowded out for months.

Investigations show how well founded are the fears of a great divorce rush in the spring. Figures now in the hands of officials support the fears.

They were obtained by a home office committee in 1934. It was then calculated that the yearly number of police court separation orders made on the grounds of cruelty, desertion, failure to maintain, failure of parental duty, totaled 11,000. There were then 50,000 such orders in operation.

They were still being made at the rate of 10,000 to 11,000 a year when Herbert's bill came before parliament.

These figures cause alarm because a large proportion of the orders are based on desertion. Under Herbert's act desertion for three years or more will constitute a ground for divorce.

Wives with years-old orders for desertion now plan to seek divorce. Wives who were hoping for an order for desertion held their hands when Herbert's bill came along, and now await the new year and the operation of the new law.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

A Columnist's Clock.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—10 A. M.—There's a chill in the air, and Joan Blondell suggests a bit of coffee. "On the way back from Cleveland," she says, "I got off at Albuquerque and walked around the station, and I was thinking of another visit there. We had arrived, the whole Blondell family, in a battered car, to play three days in vaudeville. We were dirty and tired, the baggage was tied to the running board and we had about an hour before the show started. We'd driven from Los Angeles, the roads were bad, the tires kept popping, and I'll never forget the scorchy smell as pop repeatedly got out of the flivver to vulcanize the inner tubes.

Joan Blondell recalls a trip.

"Two lumps or three? You're welcome. The store had failed so we were back in vaudeville. Running through the family history, you see, always was a store. Dad clung to the thought that show business was unstable, and he and mother always planned to retire to something safe and sane, like a store, but each time the store would flop, and back we'd go to vaudeville."

10:15 A. M.—"Let's see. There was Blondell's tea shop that he started on one of our western vaudeville trips. Then we had a grocery store in Denton, Tex., and—let's see—a girl's shop and trinket store in Leesville, La. This last one really looked as if we had something. It was right across the street from a big girls' school. Four months after dad opened it the school officials put through a new rule—all the girls had to wear blue uniforms. This put us out of business, and back we went to vaudeville. It was really humorous—a vaudeville family trying to get into legitimate business and always being driven back to one night stands and split weeks."

10:30 A. M.—"Another cup? When Bill Grady signed Jim Cagney and myself from 'Penny Arcade' for pictures, and we traveled west, it was my 53d trip across the continent, because dad and all of us had played in every vaudeville house in America over and over again.

"The same with Europe. I've been in every country but China. The map of Europe is marked with my birthday cakes—my first birthday was in Germany, the second in France, the third in Belgium. When America entered the war we got word of it just as we were going on stage in Melbourne, Australia. Dad almost opened store there. We could always tell when that old feeling was coming over him. He'd get a certain look in his eyes. He's happy now, not so much over whatever success my sister and I have had as because my brother has a successful store."

11 A. M.—"Pictures? I was lucky. Lucky in getting fat parts without being responsible for the picture's success. I'd rather have those parts and let somebody else star.

"My next picture? One with Wayne Morris. We're taking tests this afternoon. Funny, to take tests after being with them for seven years, isn't it? But I guess they want to see how we appear together."

The phone rang. It was her father, the former vaudeville headliner. She finished the conversation with him. "He's over at——" I started. "Uh-huh, at the store," she completed the sentence. On my way out I was thinking of what she'd said about luck, and as the butler opened the door I saw the street address—711. Crapshooters would agree that she's living at the right number.

Noon—Harry Cohn, in his office at Columbia Pictures, is indignant over a line in my column about "Lost Horizon." The Cohn man looks me square in the eye: "You said we'd make a profit of $11.50 on 'Lost Horizon,'" he thundered. "It's a lie. We'll make $11.65."

1 P. M.—Lunching with Hal Roach. "Never forget when I was a kid in my home town, Elmira, N. Y.," he recalls. "Guess I'm the only fellow who was ever barred from a reformatory. I worked on a grocer's truck, and I used to sneak in chewing tobacco to the prisoners, concealing it in my blouse. The day the guards caught me and took me to the warden's office I was the most scared kid in the world. So I was barred and I had to wait outside until the grocer's truck came out every day."

3 P. M.—David Niven telling Edmund Goulding and a crowd of us about his trip to England. He'd been away for five years and he rushed to his London club to see his old friends. A monocled admiral deep in a chair in the club library looked up as he entered: "Hello, Niven; haven't seen you for a week or two. Been away shooting?"

Niven, hurt, said: "I've been away five years, sir." The admiral turned backed to his paper. "You don't say, old man. I hadn't missed you until last week."

4 P. M.—At Paramount, Chris Dunphy pointing out something interesting. All camera men in Italy must angle their shots of Mussolini from the ground up it makes him look bigger. Japan has just caught onto this camera trick.

7 P. M.—Dinner at Dorothy Di Frasso's. Kay Francis, Bee Lillie, Sonny Chalieff, Bert and Olive Taylor, the Ray Bolgers, Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart, and a host of others. Cary Grant says: "Ed, you gave me my nicest writeup and my worst writeup. When I was in 'Nikki' with Fay Wray, on Broadway, you reviewed the show and suggested me for the movies. That was the nicest. Last time I was in New York I went to the Paradise and they sat us at a front table; so, being embarrassed, I sat and shielded my face so they wouldn't think I was being an exhibitionist. The next day in your column you quoted a chorus girl as saying: 'Who does Grant think he is? There, but for the grace of God, goes a juggler.' Ouch."

RUN!

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1937: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.)

SYNOPSIS.

Delivering a new car to a customer James Elliot, lost in the fog, finds himself on some one's estate. Groping his way to the dark house he stumbles over a bicycle. The front door is ajar. Entering, his flashlight reveals a girl who commands him to "Run!" A shot whistles after them as they flee to hide in the hayloft. The girl tells James she was searching for a necklace her dying Aunt Clementa had told her was hidden in the house. James cannot believe the tale. The girl vanishes before James can learn more.

INSTALMENT V.

A SECRET REASON.

There were two rooms, and a place which had been a closet and now contained a gas stove, a sink, and a bath. The bath was served by a geyser. James turned it on and went up a steep stair into the studio, where he switched on an overhead light and took a look at the football news. The names weren't out yet.

The geyser took twenty minutes to produce a decent bath. He stood there skimming through the paper. Mussolini had made a speech. James thanked heaven that he did not have to make speeches. He turned to another column and cocked an eyebrow at a highly decorative picture of Ambrose Sylvester. The famous novelist's famous profile was displayed. Every one raved about Ambrose Sylvester—that is to say, all the women did. Daphne, Kitty, Chloe, Linda, and Susan all declared that his profile was simply divine. He supposed they also read his books. He didn't seem to have written very much—three novels—nothing for the last five years or so. The legend under the photograph said, "When are we to have another link in the chain?"

He left Ambrose Sylvester and read without interest the odds that were being offered at Hollywood on a popular film star's matrimonial chances. He was just going to turn over the page, when his eye was caught by a small paragraph tucked away in the right hand corner. It was headed "Windfall for Our Dumb Friends." But that wasn't what had caught his eye; it was the name immediately below it—Lady Clementa Tolhache.

James stared at it as he might have stared at a fiery disc, or a blue dragon, or a luminous snake, or any other product of a disordered imagination. Not much more than an hour ago he had decided that there was no such name as Clementa. He did not find it at all easy to reverse this decision. He preferred to disbelieve the evidence of his senses.

After blinking rapidly several times he looked back at the paragraph—he saw it still—Clementa—Lady Clementa Tolhache. There it was in print. He read it three time, and then finished the paragraph: "Lady Clementa Tolhache has made a generous bequest to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. There are a number of other legacies, but the bulk of her estate passes to her great-nephew, Mr. John Jernyngham West, at present with his regiment in India."

James felt exasperated to the last degree. Without the slightest warning life had become completely mad. He had had an unbelievable adventure with an impossibly named girl who pitched him an incredible tale about her Aunt Clementa, and here was a paragraph featuring Aunt Clementa's will. And as if that wasn't enough, it also featured Jack West—old J. J. It couldn't be any one else. There weren't two John Jernyngham Wests in the army; he'd take his oath on that. No, it was J. J. who had tagged for him at Wellington, and he was Lady Clementa Tolhache's great-nephew and heir. The paragraph said so. He was surprised at its moderation in the matter of the diamond necklace. It might have insisted on his believing in that, too.

He went down to his bath obstinately determined to go on regarding the necklace as a myth.

It was next day that his cousin Daphne rang up. He heard the telephone as he put his key in the lock. It herded with the sink, and the gas cooker, and the bath in a manner which every one except Gertrude Lushington found extremely inconvenient. Gertrude herself merely observed vaguely that it was so nice not to have to get out of your bath when people rang you up.

James said, "Be quiet, you brute!" Switched on the light, tripped over a hot water can, and unhooked the receiver. The voice of his cousin Daphne came fluting sweetly to his ear. She had not married any of the three men to whom she had become engaged at her first ball, and was now the wife of Bonzo Strickland, the oil magnate.

"Darling, I've been trying to get you for hours. Where have you been?"

"Working," said James. "Some of us have to, you know. What do you want, Daph?"

"You could, I suppose, but you don't. What is it?"

"Well, Bonzo's gone to see his mother. He does, you know—too filial. And I'm throwing a party here—just a few bright spirits. I thought we'd dance. You'll come, won't you?"

"I don't dance," said James.

"Darling, you must come. I'm a man short. You wouldn't like to spoil my party—would you? And I've really got a secret, particular reason why I want you to come. I can't tell you about it, because I promised."

"Well, I don't say for certain, but I think you might sell another, perhaps day after tomorrow. Bonzo hasn't exactly promised, but he always comes back very fond of me, so I should think there's quite a decent chance of our blowing in one day this week. Now will you come to my party?"

"I know. Shocking, isn't it? You will come, won't you, darling?"

"I suppose so," said James.

The Stricklands had an immense house, in which their opposite tastes contended without mingling. The hall contained portraits of Bonzo's grandparents, marble busts of his father and mother, and the heads and horns which he had collected on his various shooting expeditions. The dining room was also pure Bonzo. It had the bright red walls of the Victorian period. His mother had had a bright red wall paper in her dining room when he was a little boy, and at 40 he was still unable to think of a dining room except in terms of Pompeian red. Daphne knew when she was beaten, and having to give way she did so with the greatest charm. Bonzo was permitted, even encouraged, to go the whole hog. There was a blue and crimson carpet, red velvet curtains, and a massive mahogany suite.

But the drawing room was Daphne's, floor, walls, and lighting all modern, daring, and bright. The room was cleared now ready for dancing. A trio occupied an alcove, and a two-step was in progress. James stood at the doorway and waited for the music to stop. The floor was packed. He caught a glimpse of Daphne and lost it again. She was looking insufferably pretty. He did not see any one else he knew, and he thought that he had been a fool to come. He had probably still got oil on his hands. You soaped them and you scrubbed them, and they looked all right, and then next time you looked at them the oil seemed to have worked out again. He didn't mind dances when he knew the people, but he wasn't going to know a solitary soul in this crowd.

"I've got a partner for you. You can thank me afterward—I hope she will. I told her to stay just here, so if she's gone——"

They came into a sort of backwater beside the fireplace. There was actually a bare square yard of space. A sheet of glass ran from ceiling to floor, molded curiously into fantastic pillars on either side, and arched above a flickering electric fire. Against the nearer pillar a girl stood waiting for them, and the first thing that James noticed about her was that she had green eyes.

Hair Swept Up from Face Is Ageing in Its Effect

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Talking with a well known hairdresser the other day, I was told of his experience in taking his best beloved out done up in one of his newest and most artistic achievements. It was an advance style, but the influence was all in the upswept manner, with hair brushed high up off brow and face in one of those new rolls. Was he proud of his little woman? And of his masterly skill? All fine and good until a friend of the little woman's stepped up to her and said: "You look stunning, but fifteen years older!"

And that, as far as I can see, seems to be the reaction to the concerted efforts of hairdressers to swing hair up off the neck as high as it will go. Women are slow to accept the style for the very reason offered above. It invariably makes a woman look older.

Looking through several of the latest magazines, among the photographed mannequins, or social figures serving temporarily as models, the proverbial needle in the haystack is easier to find than the lady with the high-swept hair. No. Hollywood's idea of glamorous hairdressing still is in the bones and it won't be cast out. And Hollywood's idea is the long bob with much hair flowing around the neck.

Perhaps the argument against the higher coiffure isn't all age addition. So many women haven't the throats for that sharp, clear test. Many haven't the small head shape that makes it lovely when it is lovely. And I have seen some divinely lovely heads dressed after the manner we're talking about.

What you can take out of the attempt to revolutionize the coiffure styles of America is just this: That if you have a style of your own that is good, you can cling to it, provided, of course, that you make a little compromise with what's new. Just enough not to look outmoded, at least.

One common opinion extracted from men and women in style businesses of one kind and another is that the page boy bob [the shepherd bob now, if you please] belongs to youth; that the older woman dares it at great risk to her reputation for smartness. As far as I can see, it still is going just as strong as ever among the younger ones and, personally, I think it a charming style for the lovely young things.

What are the six cardinal mistakes which cause dry hair? Antoinette Donnelly lists them in her helpful beauty booklet, "Bring Out the Beauty in Your Hair." On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. By postpaid mail, 7 cents.

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Keeping silver shining and lustrous is an ever present problem of the housewife. Besides the aids we discussed recently we came across two more the other day. They're both practical, and each is priced 'way under a dollar.

The first is intended to keep the flat silver in your buffet drawers from tarnishing. It's a sort of powder and crystal mixture and comes in a white jar. You simply remove the cover, place this jar in the drawer with the silver and let it remain there. It will last for six months and by absorbing the gases in the air, which are the chief cause of tarnish, it will preserve the polish on the silver. It is, of course, in no way injurious to the silver, and it is odorless.

The other item is a wine-red bag, containing a large piece of soft flannel. You wrap your tablespoons, or whatever, in the flannel, put them in the bag and fasten it by means of a trick, slide fastener which makes the bag almost air-tight.

Shaw's 'Devil's Disciple' Given Sound Staging

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A revival of "The Devil's Disciple," one of George Bernard Shaw's early plays and perhaps the most romantic piece of work in his career, was staged in the Great Northern theater last night by the Federal Theater project. The production manifests the professional skill and attention to detail which characterizes Harry Minturn's method as stage direction; and is, in general, on the plane of sound stock company acting.

This is one of Shaw's "Plays for Puritans," first published about 1900. In that period the "costume" play of historical romance was in full flower and Shaw was evidently influenced by the popular taste of the time in his choice of subject and treatment.

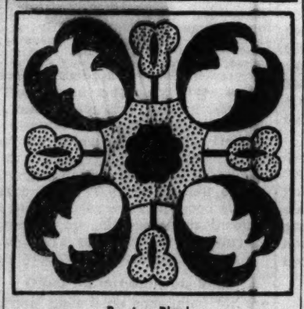
He selected the war of the American revolution for his background, the American Puritan temperament for the chief target of his satirical wit, and the British military mind for his butt of ridicule. He took no impertinent liberties with his material, but wrote a clear-cut play of historical atmosphere whose chief situation—a heroic rogue's substitution of himself for a better man into the hands of an executioner—is clearly borrowed from Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities." The rôle of Dick Dudgeon in "The Devil's Disciple" is blood brother to Sidney Carton, and contains the same kind of romantic attitudes.

Its acting has been infrequent, probably because it is far from being a typical Shavian comedy. Nevertheless, whenever acted it has proved stageworthy and engrossing, especially in the last act, where the execution of Dick Dudgeon [happily frustrated at the end] is exhibited with military pomp and circumstance. Here Gen. Burgoyne figures in the picture in a happy and apparently fairly truthful characterization.

The last "Devil's Disciple" of Chicago's playgoing memory was a Theater Guild production, with Basil Sidney in the central rôle, in 1924, also in the Great Northern. Old timers may also be able to remember Richard Mansfield's and Henry Miller's interpretations, which are more than three decades old.

John Connor, who figured in the WPA production of "Chalk Dust" nearly two years ago, is the free thinking, anti-Puritan hero in this cast and acts the rôle with an effective romantic swagger. Vincent Coleman is good as the minister, Victor Sutherland is happily cast as Gen. Burgoyne, and Linda Barrett makes a pleasant impression of the minister's young wife.

Today's Quilt



Persian Block.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

One of the most popular efforts of quilt makers to produce an ususual and effective block is seen in today's applique pattern, "Persian Block." It is taken from an old Persian tapestry and successfully reproduced as a pattern for a quilt block. The colors are rich gold, purple, soft green, and a touch of blue against a white background. The block is fourteen inches square, and the applique blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement with white ones. The quilting on this type of quilt may be a masterpiece or it may spoil the beauty, but the blocks quilted in outline with the same design in the plain blocks are most successful.

Suits Many Figure Types

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

If you're slender, this distinctive daytime dress will flatter you. If your silhouette is rather amply proportioned, the world never will know it when you wear this model, because its lines are designed to disguise overweight.

There is a becoming V neckline around which the bodice folds softly. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders. Above the snugly fitted waistline panel the bodice is softly shirred for becoming fulness. The skirt is cut to flare slightly, just enough for grace and comfort in walking.

If you like, have buttons in the waistline sector, or omit them and wear a belt. At the point of the V you may wear a sparkling brooch. Such accessories are tremendously smart this season.

Style No. 2946 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for the long sleeved dress.

Patients Need Blankets.

There are eight children in the K. family. The father is unemployable because of a serious cardiac condition. Through no fault of their own the family has been subjected to five evictions in the course of a comparatively short period, thereby losing many of their possessions. On one of these occasions their blankets were stolen. Now two children are gravely ill with pneumonia, due to cold, dampness and lack of sufficient clothing and bedding. None of the agencies have been able to help, and their caseworker has appealed to us. The address is on the north side of the city.

Couple Foolish to Let Height Ruin Romance

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Rita's beau is a head shorter than she. They are past their early 20s and, one would think, should be immune to silly criticism on a subject so unimportant to marriage. She is not one of the extraordinarily tall girls, nor is he one of the undersized men, and for a year they never took their height difference as anything but mildly amusing.

"As our marriage draws near, people tease us about the difference in height until it is beginning to get under the man's skin.

"He even told me, the other night, that if I wanted to withdraw from the bargain because I was sensitive about my height, I could and he would understand. Naturally, I thought he wanted to back out of the marriage, and it made me pretty unhappy, but later explanations ironed out this point. What do you say?"

We say, my good girl, that if you want to wreck your life from any angle whatsoever, just go on listening to what people say.

Don't you hear every day people saying that so-and-so never will make a go of it?

How many couples do you know, anyway, who are perfectly matched?

You two had better promise each other never to mention the subject again and to laugh in the face of any outsider who undertakes to tell you that your height difference may ruin your marriage.

Heads of Universities to Address Sessions on Radio Education

Designed as a forum for an interchange of ideas among persons interested in the use of radio in education, the second National Conference on Educational Broadcasting will be held at the Drake hotel Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Among university presidents scheduled to speak or lead discussion groups at the conference are Robert M. Hutchins of Chicago, Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern, Clarence A. Dykstra of Wisconsin, and Arthur G. Crane of Wyoming.

Preceding the conference, the University of Chicago round table will devote its half hour broadcast Sunday to a discussion of educational broadcasting.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

Question 51: You are West, declarer at a six spade contract. Your hand and dummy are as follows:

WEST	EAST [Dummy]
♠ A K Q 9 7	♠ J 10 8 6 5
♥ K	♥ 5 2
♦ A 6 2	♦ K 4 2
♣ K 10 2	♣ A J 9

North opens the heart queen. South plays the heart nine. Is there any possibility of your being defeated at your slam contract? State in a few words how you would play the hand, as declarer.

Answer: There is no possibility of being defeated unless you defeat yourself. This hand is the simplest possible example of elimination and throw-in play. No matter how the adverse cards are situated, by drawing three rounds of trumps, cashing the second heart trick, cashing the ace and king of diamonds, and merely exiting with the losing diamond, the enemy must either present you with the club finesse, or give you a ruff-and-discard. [Two points demerit for trying to "guess" the club queen, or for failing to play as specified.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 52: East-West vulnerable; North-South not vulnerable. The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Double	2 no trump	3 hearts
3 spades	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
Double	Pass	5 clubs	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Which player—South, West, North or East—has the weakest hand at the table?

TODAY'S HAND.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	Pass	2 clubs
2 hearts	Pass	2 Spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

Despite the fact that North had not even kept the bidding open, South, with a near two bid, decided to go to game over the noncommittal two spade "preference" bid from North. This decision was sound, and it is too bad that South's play was not up to his bidding judgment.

Three rounds of clubs were played, declarer ruffing the last. Declarer hastily drew trumps, and then played hearts with the prayer that the jack would fall. When it didn't, declarer cursed his luck and conceded a one trick defeat.

The error declarer made is a common one. The crux of the hand was in the heart break. Assuming, of course, that the trumps would break 3-2, the correct line of play, after ruffing the third club, was to lead to dummy's spade queen and back to the ace, then, temporarily to forget about the one outstanding trump while the heart break was being investigated. If, on the lead of the ace and king of hearts, the jack dropped, obviously the outstanding spade could be drawn in safety. If the heart jack did not fall, the heart queen should be cashed. If the jack still failed to appear, the ten should be ruffed in dummy. By this means declarer would retain all his chances. If the hearts broke, well and good. If they didn't, it was quite possible that the fourth heart would be held by the same defender that had the third spade.

Many Presents for Young Can Be Homemade

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The stores are a delight, a temptation, a satisfaction when you are ready to shop for the children's Christmas. But you may need to make a big stab at economy this Christmas, or you may love to use your hands, as most of the members of our family always have liked to. If so, you can make a great many really interesting gifts for your children and have a lot of fun in the doing.

This fun will be increased if you are not too rushed, because things always have a way of piling up as Christmas draws near; and it is a comfort not to be in too much of a whirl, though something of a whirl is necessary to the Christmas spirit.

Of course, most of the ideas for little girls' gifts have to do with dolls and strictly feminine things, but don't overlook the fact that little girls, as well as little boys, need lots of vigorous activity and can enjoy hammering and pounding and craft work.

Carpentry things for the small child who loves them present wide variety. Small wagons to be pulled around at home or larger express wagon types are always welcome gifts. Big peg boards with very large pegs are wonderful for the inexperienced hands of very young children; and boxes they adore.

As for the mother who is clever with her needle, there is almost no limit to what she can turn out as a Christmas gift. The coziest and gayest of cloth and velveteen animals can be made.

For further suggestions & three page leaflet of "Presents that Mother and Father Can Make for the Child" is available. It is mailed on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Bevans' column also appears in The Sunday Tribune.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The sprint to get that Christmas shopping done begins today. If you're a well organized shopper you've probably got your lists made up by this time—but if you're like most of us you have probably been dreading the hour you must settle down to the problem.

We hope, between now and the festive day, to help you in your actual shopping Today we're just tossing out suggestions.

We have a special hint for husbands and sons and daughters that's rather dear to our hearts: We suggest a gift of beauty treatments. Women adore them, of course—and what could there be in the way of simplified shopping to equal the ease with which you can telephone your favorite beauty salon and order up a course of treatments for her for Christmas?

Last year three men of our acquaintance followed us on this suggestion — each presenting his wife with a course. And this year the three report that they are doing the same thing again, because their wives called the inspiration a blessed one.

It's possible to arrange for a gift card and the amount of money you wish to spend can be dictated by your own pocketbook. A dozen face treatments means that the little woman can have one a month—her gift will last all year. The "head to toe" treatments, which include the whole works, from nail-toe tinting to a snappy hairdress, not skipping a body treatment, will probably be even more exciting. A course of these is a rich gift, indeed.

Mothers, especially, should have gifts like these. They're usually the self-sacrificing kind; they wouldn't spend the money themselves. It's a nice gesture for children to pay them such a tribute to their femininity.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Detroit's world champion Red Wings, trying to climb out of the American division cellar in the National Hocky league, whipped the Chicago Blackhawks, 4 to 1, tonight before 9,499. The victory, the Red Wings' second of the season, snapped a three game losing streak and left them one point behind the Hawks.

Lanky Gordon Pettinger split the Blackhawk defense at 9:16 of the opening period for the first goal and Rookie Carl Liscombe took a pass from Larry Aurie for the second at 9:49 of the second period.

Aurie, a leading scorer last season, counted his first goal of the present campaign at 9:25 of the third period while Earl Seibert was in the penalty box. Johnny Gottselig scored Chicago's only goal three minutes later while the Red Wings were short and Herb Lewis batted in the final Detroit score 59 seconds afterwards.

Fifteen Penalties Called.

Fifteen penalties were called, Detroit drawing eight of them. At one time in the second period six players occupied the penalty box.

The Red Wings, shaken up by Manager Jack Adams this week after their slow start in the league title race, skated and passed well to show their best sustained form of the year. Until tonight the Detroit team, a high scoring unit last season, had failed to produce more than two goals in one game.

The Blackhawks had their first scoring chance in the opening minute of play when Bucko McDonald was penalized for tripping but were unable to connect on a power play, although a moment after the Detroit defense man returned Romnes missed a shot at an open net. A cross-checking penalty on Seibert produced a rain of shots on Karakas but he stopped them all.

Detroit was short again when Doran was penalized for pushing Gottselig, but turned aside Blackhawk power plays. Seconds after Doran returned, Pettinger took a pass from Lewis, split the Hawk defense and beat Karakas with a low shot at 9:16.

Bowman, Kendall Fight.

Play slowed as Bowman and Kendall were penalized for fighting. Karakas made a neat stop on the best passing play of the period, Barry to Lewis. Smith barely kicked out a long hard drive from right wing by Seibert as both teams resorted to long shots near the close of the period.

Thompson took Romnes' pass to force Smith into a fast save and Gottselig was tied up at the crease on a good chance for a close shot as the second period opened. Play was even then until Aurie took a pass from Drouillard, crossed the blue line, and fed the puck to Rookie Carl Liscombe, who came in from left wing to beat Karakas at 9:49.

On a break following a Chicago rush, Lewis and Barry drove down and Barry missed three short shots. After fifteen minutes of play, Bowman bumped Jenkins into the boards and the Hawk player swung on him. Both were sent off for roughing.

Goals Come Fast.

Eight minutes after the third period opened Seibert was penalized for tripping and the Red Wings put on a power play that scored, Aurie poking in a rebound at 9:25. Bruneteau and Barry were given assists.

A minute later McDonald went off for high sticking. The Hawks powered and when a Detroit defense man blocked Thompson's shot the puck fell beside Gottselig who beat Smith for Chicago's goal in 12:49. Just after McDonald got back on the ice Lewis took Howe's pass and scored again for Detroit at 13:48.

RESERVE A PAGE IN HISTORY BOOK FOR PREP CROWD

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Maybe the ballyhoo of Bill De Correvont and Johnny Galvin, the wonder boys of Austin and Leo, has done it. Maybe the ticket salesmen have become more subtle. And again, maybe the game is just getting bigger and better because of its own momentum and attractiveness. In any event, tomorrow's battle for the city prep championship at Soldiers' field will draw the largest crowd in the history of prep school competition in this country.

More than $95,000 is in the till, according to Barnet Hodes, secretary of Chicago's Own Christmas benefit, sponsors of the spectacle conceived by Mayor Kelly in 1934. And there still are $1 seats available. With a continuation of good weather it is certain that these will be grabbed at the sales today and tomorrow morning.

If all these seats are sold and used there will be 85,000 on hand at the kickoff tomorrow. This not only will be the largest prep crowd ever but will rival the two or three largest crowds of the season in the university leagues.

How It's Grown.

And to give you some idea of how this attraction has grown we give you some statistics to compare with that $95,000 which already has been salted for the benefit of Chicago's needy.

The first game, in which Lindblom beat Leo, 6 to 0, drew $36,000, which at the time was looked upon as a handsome pile. In 1935, when Lindblom again beat Leo, 6 to 0, those who saw the performance paid $50,000. Then came the big zoom of last year.

Last November the prep fans paid $87,000 and got a bargain when they saw Austin and Fenwick fight each other to a 19 to 19 standoff.

Mr. Segreti Reveals All.

Tomorrow morning is the orthodox time to reveal the probable lineups but our nimble scout, Jimmy Segreti, has come up with a couple of lists which he says can't be wrong. So we give you Jimmy's secret 24 hours in advance:

The Austin lads were given a day of rest yesterday, having exerted themselves at great length Wednesday afternoon. Coach Bill Heiland told the boys they'd have to go through their didoes this afternoon. Coach A. L. [Whitey] Cronin of Leo let his protégés work up good turkey appetites by putting them through two hours of work at Shewbridge field yesterday morning.

Other Entertainment, Too.

Plans have been completed for the nonfootball entertainment at the game. A 1,000 piece band, from ten public and Catholic high schools, including Austin's girls' and boys' bands, led by the twin drum majors, June and Jane Henricks, will play. The consolidated bands will be led by Paul Whiteman in the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner," which will be played just before the game starts at 1:30 o'clock. In addition to the Austin and Leo bands the bands from De La Salle, St. Philip, St. Rita, Fenger, Tilden Tech, Senn and DuSable will participate.

Hocky Loses Out, but C. Y. O. Gains a Fighter in Cavalieri

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mike Karakas, current goalkeeper of the Chicago Blackhawks, was getting to be quite a big shot in hocky up there in Eveleth, Minn., just about the time that a smallish Italian boy was beginning to frisk around local rinks. The lad was Walter Cavalieri, a native of nearby Virginia, whose folks originally hailed from Rome, Italy.

There are few Latins in big time hocky, the Hawks' Peter Palangio being the sole Roman representative in the game at present, but if young Cavalieri had managed to put on another few inches and a pound or two, there might well be another in the majors today.

Hocky Trifle Too Rugged.

But the Cavalieri frame ceased development at 5 feet 4 inches and 112 pounds, and hocky became a trifle too rugged for Walter. It was about this time that the family moved to Chicago, where there isn't quite so much opportunity for youthful icemen, but more than plenty of it for a boy who was willing to substitute the give and take of boxing for that of hocky.

It didn't take Cavalieri long to forget his favorite pastime of hocky, and take up boxing. The Catholic Youth Organization gave him the chance as it has hundreds of other embryonic athletes, and that is why Walter will be one of the finalists in the seventh annual C. Y. O. tournament at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night.

Gives Johnny Noto a Real Battle.

The little Italian made his first score as a novice flyweight in the Golden Gloves tournament, winning from William Cooper all the way. In the C. Y. O. final last year, Cavalieri surprised the crowd by giving Johnny Noto such a battle that only an eight count knockdown in the second round kept him from winning from the veteran.

In his brief career, Walter has had 68 fights, winning 50, losing 4, and earning draws in 14. His most important argument to date appears to be that of next Wednesday, when he will meet another Noto in another final, this time Al, brother of Johnny. Ten times have these two Italian mites battled, and nine times has Cavalieri won, with Noto getting a draw the tenth time.

He'll Be 21 on Dec. 9.

Cavalieri, who will celebrate his 21st birthday on Dec. 9, is now employed as an elevator operator in an office building at Madison street and Ogden avenue. He hopes to celebrate the anniversary next Wednesday night by bringing Noto down every time he comes up, if at all.

CORNELL BEATS PENN, 34-20, IN FINAL QUARTER

Pass Attack of Quakers Thrills 61,000.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 25.—Cornell's big red eleven climaxed its most successful season in recent years this afternoon by trouncing the University of Pennsylvania, 34 to 20, at Franklin field. But before that triumph—the eleventh in the forty-four games which date back to 1893—had been written into the records, Pennsylvania's doughty warriors had thrilled the throng of 61,000 with an air attack that sent the game into the final period tied at 20 to 20.

Cornell made 20 first downs, 17 of them by rushing. Cornell gained 339 yards by rushing. When this is compared to Pennsylvania's four first downs, two by rushing, and a net loss of six yards by rushing, it is difficult to believe that Cornell did not score the winning touchdown until the last five minutes.

Penn Intercepts—and Scores.

Cornell led at the half, 20 to 13, apparently a satisfactory advantage, but while Cornell was frittering away two scoring opportunities Pennsylvania was waiting for a break.

Immediately after the second Cornell threat, Penn received its opportunity as Jerome Holland's attempted lateral pass on an end around play was intercepted by Bill Miller, substitute Penn back. George Peck brought Miller down on Cornell's 21 yard line. From here, on a third successive pass attempt, Pennsylvania scored when Jim Connell, full back, passed to H. I. Gustafson in the Cornell end zone.

Cornell Leads Again.

Pennsylvania, however, was not satisfied with a tie, but its passing, which had brought three touchdowns, now bommeranged when Peck intercepted on Penn's 31 yard line. Ken Brown, Cornell full back, took charge. In three line smashes against Penn's five man line, Brown reached the 21 yard line. Then, as Penn went into a seven man line, for the first time in the game, Peck went around Penn's right end on a reverse and to the goal. Rose replaced Brown and place kicked the point. With five minutes remaining Cornell led, 27 to 20.

Pennsylvania now collapsed completely and after the subsequent kickoff, Cornell marched fifty-one yards in six plays for its final touchdown. Baker completed this drive with a thirty-nine yard sprint inside Penn's left tackle and down the east sideline. Rose's

Iowa Names Bob Lannon, End, Most Valuable Player

Iowa City, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Bob Lannon, senior end from Winner, S. D., has been voted the most valuable player of the University of Iowa football team for the 1937 season by his teammates.

Lannon won his third letter in football this fall, and has just completed his most successful season for the Hawkeyes.

"Plays Eight Perfect Games."

The vote had the hearty approval of Irl Tubbs, Iowa coach, who believes the 6 foot 2 inch, 197 pound Lannon is the greatest end in the Western conference.

"Lannon played eight perfect games of fotball for us this season," the Iowa coach said. "He gave everything in every game, and was taken out of very few plays.

"The real tribute to Bob's ability, however, lies in the fact that he had to learn an entirely different system this fall," Coach Tubbs continued. "From a waiting type of game, which he was taught during his first two years at Iowa, Lannon was forced to change to the smashing type of end. He did so with remarkable speed."

Proves a 60 Minute Man.

Coach Tubbs, who has just completed his first year at Iowa, added: "When I came to Iowa I was led to believe that Lannon was fragile, and unable to play a full game. Bob proved this to be wrong by playing almost 60 minutes in every game. Injuries he did receive were never discovered until after the game."

Lannon, who now weighs close to 200 pounds, started his football career as a 95 pound stripling at Winner, S. D., High school. Thin and underweight following an attack of pneumonia, Lannon decided the best way to build up his body was by playing football.

He reported for practice—and made the team.

Lannon, who is 23 years old, played four years at Winner High school, and was chosen all-state end in South Dakota the last year. He also won three letters in basketball and four letters in track at the South Dakota prep school.

In addition to his football activity, Lannon is a member of Delta Chi social fraternity, and also is a member of A. F. I., honorary senior men's organization at the university.

Lannon is enrolled in the commerce school and is president of this college's senior class, as well as president of the University Commerce club.

He will enter the commercial field following graduation and is especially interested in salesmanship.

Notre Dame Eats Turkey—but Practice Comes First

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Coach Elmer Layden gave the Notre Dame squad a spirited practice today before permitting the players to enjoy their Thanksgiving turkey.

The Notre Dame players are inclined to doubt that Amby Schindler will be on the sidelines when Notre Dame observes its football golden jubilee game against Southern California here Saturday. Schindler was hurt two weeks ago. The Trojan star has been rested and it is figured here that he will be in condition to play notwithstanding reports from the Southern California squad which is en route to Notre Dame.

Work on Offense.

Most of today's drill was devoted to offensive maneuvers. Andy Puplis, senior quarter back from Chicago, ran and passed from punt formation. Half Backs Jack McCarthy and Harry Stevenson ran, passed, and kicked.

Later, Quarter Backs Puplis and Chuck O'Reilly mixed in an assortment of running plays featuring Bunny McCormick, Joe Thesing, Ed Simonich, and Ennio Arboit. All except three of these backs will be playing their final game. Only Thesing, Simonich, and Stevenson will be back next year.

Sweeney in Last Game.

Capt. Joe Zwers, Chuck Sweeney, and Len Skoglund, ends; Pat McCarty, center, and the South Bend guards, Joe Ruetz and Joe Kuharich, also will end their Notre Dame football careers.

TROJANS ARRIVE TODAY.

Herington, Kas., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Southern California's football squad left just before dinner tonight and will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning. Soon after arrival the Trojans will practice at Stagg field in preparation for Saturday's game against Notre Dame.

Coach Howard Jones drilled the Trojans for more than two hours here this afternoon under a warm sun which reminded the Los Angeles boys of their home climate. Most of the time was spent on pass formations.

Coach Jones is set on a starting lineup which will include six players who have had no experience against Notre Dame. They are Grenville Lansdell, Robert Hoffman, Boyd Morgan and William Sangster in the back field, Howard Stoecker at left tackle and Harry Smith at right guard. All except Morgan are sophomores.

There still is little hope of Ambrose Schindler playing. Mickey Anderson and Phil Gasper may be idle too.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich, Nov. 25.—The final chapter in the playing career of Earl [Dutch] Clark, the incomparable quarter back of the Detroit Lions, opened auspiciously amid pageantry and presentations in the University of Detroit stadium this morning, but faded off to a dismal conclusion under the irresistible power of Chicago's title bound Bears.

Two field goals by Jack Manders, veteran right half back, early in the first period and a forty-six return of an intercepted pass for touchdown in the fourth period by Sam Francis, full back of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S All-Star team last summer, enabled the Bears to beat the Lions, 13 to 0.

To clinch the western division championship of the National Professional Football league the Bears now have to win only one of two remaining games against Cleveland and the Chicago Cardinals. The Bears returned to Chicago immediately after today's game to begin preparations for meeting Cleveland at Wrigley field Sunday in the first annual Bear homecoming game.

Defense Rises to Heights.

Today's game, like the first meeting between the Lions and Bears in Chicago on Oct. 24, was a story of lines. The Bears had the power when power was needed and after establishing a six point lead in the first quarter played cautiously, stressing defense, at which they were superb.

Detroit's best offensive display came in the third period when Full Back Bill Shepherd broke away for sixty yards to the Bears' 6 yard line, but there four thrusts were repulsed and the Chicago team took the ball on the 4 yard line.

In the last minute of the period the Lions started another offensive which carried to the Bears' 8 yard line. Led by Clark, the Lions pressed continually in the last quarter, but when it appeared as if they might break down the Bears' stubborn defense Ray Nolting kicked a high punt that traveled seventy-five yards in the air and went into the end zone for a touchback.

This was to be Clark's day, but it was a coterie of Bear line men who played leading rôles in a contest not especially sparkling, although vicious and excellently played. Outstanding were George Musso, Joe Stydahar, Bill Karr, Del Bjork, Danny Fortmann, and Frank Sullivan. Sullivan received his first starting assignment because Frank Bausch, the Bears' regular center, was left in Chicago with an attack of appendicitis.

Manders Kicks Off.

While the 102 piece Wayne university band played, Manders kicked off to Clark in the end zone for a touchback. Three plunges failed to advance the ball, then Clark sent Huffman back to kick. The low and wabbly punt bounded out of bounds on Detroit's 44 yard line.

Manders immediately took charge. He pounded inside of Left Tackle Jack Johnson for three yards and hit guard for six yards. Nagurski added a yard inside Johnson for a first down and Manders cracked the same hole for two yards. Manders faked a plunge and Masterson streaked out wide around Left End Klewicki for six yards, bringing the ball down to the 26 yard line. When Nagurski failed to gain on third down, Manders took his place on the 34 yard line and made a perfect place kick.

Manders Rips Through.

Manders again kicked off deep into the end zone for a touchback and Detroit made its second futile attempt to pierce the Bear line. When two plunges and an end around netted only one yard, Huffman punted. This kick wabbled out of bounds on Detroit's 46 yard line. Beattie Feathers, who replaced Nolting in the back

LIVE IN ILLINOIS? AFTER JAN. 1 FISH WITH ONLY 1 LINE

But Code Omits Limit for Nonresidents.

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois anglers who like to fish through the ice are making complaints to the state department of conservation about the regulation in the 1937 game and fish code which permits them to use only one rod and line. In other seasons they were allowed to use as many lines as they pleased.

The present code prohibits the use of more than one line, effective last July 1. Conservation wardens have not been enforcing this rule for summer and autumn fishing, but will start enforcing it Jan. 1, when the ice fishing begins in earnest.

A Wail from the Anglers.

This new regulation is bad news to the ice fishermen and they are moaning loudly and long. To add to their complaints, they have found that the 1937 code permits nonresident fishermen [with licenses] to come to Illinois and use two rods and lines while residents are permitted to use only one.

When the new codes were printed the ruling against residents using more than one line was inserted, and by mistake the similar ruling for nonresidents was not changed accordingly. Anthony Maggio, department of conservation inspector for the Chicago area, recently told this department that the nonresident clause may be changed in a special session of the state legislature, since the department recognizes the error and does not want it to remain in the code.

Will Reduce Catches.

Without doubt the regulation permitting a fisherman to use just one outfit when he fishes through the ice is going to reduce the number of pickerel, crappies, and other fish which the boys take in northern Illinois during the cold months. Apparently that was the objective of the new regulation . . . to cut down on the winter catches of fish by making it illegal for one to cut six, eight, or more holes in the ice and rig up that many fishing outfits.

So, after Jan. 1 Illinois fishermen will be able to use only one rod and line. Nonresident fishermen coming into the state to fish legally will be able to use two lines, but game wardens will request that they use only one. After the legislature has acted on the error in the code book, nonresident fishermen will be on the same basis as state residents.

ALABAMA BEATS VANDERBILT, 9-7, WITH FIELD GOAL

Wins on Sophomore's Last Period Kick.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—They called on Haywood [Sandy] Sanford again today, and the gangling sophomore kicked Alabama into the Southeastern conference championship—a twenty-two yard field goal that beat Vanderbilt, 9 to 7, and brightened the Crimson Tide's hopes for an invitation to the Rose Bowl or the Sugar Bowl.

Just as he did against Tulane earlier in the season, the 200 pound end rushed into the thick of the battle late in the fourth period to kick the ball accurately between the uprights.

Vanderbilt Drives 47 Yards.

On the kick, made from an angle of almost 45 degrees, hinged Alabama's hopes of an undefeated and untied campaign. It came just a few minutes after the Red Regiment had been repulsed at the 5 yard line by the Commodores.

Vanderbilt was leading, 7 to 6, having overcome a first half disadvantage by rushing forty-seven yards to score and kick the extra point.

Late in the second period a Vanderbilt back fumbled, with Bradford of Alabama recovering on the Commodore 44. Kilgrow, after dashing through tackle for eleven yards, passed to End Tut Warren, who evaded a blocker at the 4 to make the catch and stumble across for a touchdown.

Housman Goes Over.

His team trailing, 6 to 0, at the intermission, Marshall, 145 pound Vanderbilt quarter back, returned a punt to the Alabama 47 yard line and then on an attempted pass dashed fifteen to the 32. The Texas sophomore passed to Ray Andrus for fourteen and next reeled off nine to the Tide's 9. Andrus and Marshall plunged to the 1 foot stripe. There Hardy Housman hit center for a touchdown. Joe Agee, a substitute, kicked the extra point and Vanderbilt seemed to have the game in hand until the late moments.

TENNESSEE WINS, 13-0.

CREIGHTON LOSES, 27-0.

Lubbock, Tex., Nov. 25.—(AP)—After a listless first half in which they were held scoreless by Creighton, Texas Tech struck four times for a 27-0 victory here today.

Elmer Tarbox and Bobby Holmes scored early in the third quarter, Tarbox going through center for 79 yards, and Holmes dashing 32 yards for the second score.

Late in the third quarter Captain Red Ramsey, Tech end, blocked a punt on the Creighton 25, and the ball bounded back over the goal line where it was covered by Murphy, Tech tackle. In the final quarter Barnett's 18 yard pass was gathered in by Ed Smith, who ran five yards for another score.

TEXAS AGGIES WIN, 7-0.

College Station, Tex., Nov. 25.—(AP)—One sudden surge in the second period, engineered by Dick Todd and Dick Vitek, two nimble backs, gave the Texas Aggies a 7 to 0 victory over the University of Texas today in their annual Thanksgiving day game.

A first period shovel pass which Todd took to the Texas 14 set up the only score of the game. Three plays later Vitek carried the ball across and Todd added the extra point.

MARYLAND WINS, 8 TO 0.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The University of Maryland ended one of its most successful seasons today with an 8 to 0 victory over Washington and Lee.

Washington and Lee went into the contest determined to offset power with its passes. From the time Maryland blocked Harrison Hogan's quick kick on his own goal for a safety it was obvious the invaders' only hope was to pass and hope for connections.

Maryland power plays clicked at the start of the third quarter, however, in an eighty yard touchdown drive launched after the first kickoff. A thirty yard dash by Meade started the march. On the W. & L. 24 yard line Quarter Back Charley Weidinger wriggled free for a twenty yard sprint and went over for the score in two plays.

MISSISSIPPI STATE WINS.

University, Miss., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mississippi State scored an upset today by beating its ancient rival, the University of Mississippi, 9 to 7.

The state team thoroughly outfought its rivals in the first half and staved off desperate Mississippi attacks in the last two periods.

WAKE FOREST WINS, 19-7.

Charlotte, N. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Wake Forest uncovered an assortment of deceptive plays today and beat Davidson, 19 to 7, before 10,000.

Davis ran eleven yards for a touchdown early in the second period that put Davidson ahead when Williams placekicked the point. Wake Forest a few minutes later, drove from midfield, Wirtz scoring. Wake Forest drove from its 33 in the fourth period and Wirtz again plunged for the touchdown.

RICHMOND WINS, 6-0.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The University of Richmond took advantage of a blocked punt early in the first period today to win, 6 to 0, over William and Mary. The score came after two and a half minutes of play.

VIRGINIA TECH BEATS V. M. I.

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Virginia Tech upset Virginia Military Institute, 12 to 6, before 20,000 today.

Cornell Beats Penn, 34 to 20, in Last Period

Cornell scored in the first quarter on a thirty-nine yard drive with Rose sneaking over from the 1 yard line. Pennsylvania matched this a few minutes later when two passes connected, the second from Quarter Back Koepsell to Coulter, sent the latter twenty-four yards to the scoring zone. Shinn's placement tied the score.

In the second period Baker's brilliant run of forty-three yards was the principal ingredient in Cornell's second touchdown move. Baker was run out of bounds on Penn's 2 yard line and Rose scored on the next play. He then place kicked for a 14 to 7 lead.

Hooper and Stahl Stars.

Two breaks linked together gave Penn a second touchdown. Peck touched Coulter's quick kick and Shinn recovered on Cornell's 37 yard line. Three plays later Burke's pass to Koepsell bounced from the hands of the Penn back and the Cornell safety and Schuenemann, Penn end, caught the ball on the 13 yard line and continued to the goal.

Twenty seconds before the end of the half Cornell marched sixty-one yards in six plays, Brown and Baker turning in runs of twenty-seven and twenty-eight yards, respectively, and Baker plunging through the line for the final yard.

Toronto Beats Rangers, 3-1; Adds to Lead

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs lengthened their lead in the Canadian section of the National Hocky league with a 3 to 1 victory over the New York Rangers tonight. The Leafs won in the closing minutes of the final period.

A crowd of more than 16,000, largest of the season, saw the ragged contest. Turk Broda, Toronto goalie, was the star. He had no chance on the only shot that got past him.

Harvey Jackson put the Leafs out in front in the second period while Art Coulter was in the penalty box. Gord Drillon and Syl Apps assisted. The Leafs held the lead until after 7 minutes in the third period when Bobby Kirk converted a long pass from Babe Pratt. Late in the period a trio of Leafs broke away, and Pep Kelly drilled home a shot from his wing after taking Red Horner's pass. Red Metz ended the scoring on an effort with Horner and Kelly, 11 seconds before the game ended.

CULVER ROUTS LAKE VIEW, 42-0, IN FINAL GAME

Culver, Ind., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Culver Military academy ended its football season with a 42 to 0 victory over Lake View High, Chicago, today. The Cadets started the touchdown parade early in the first quarter when Funk caught a pass and raced fifteen yards across the goal. Four more touchdowns were scored in the first half, largely by lateral pass plays. Lake View held Culver scoreless in the third period, but the substitution of the first team for a few minutes in the final quarter resulted in another touchdown by Capt. Fitzpatrick.

ARKANSAS' PASS PITCHER ROUTS TULSA U., 28-7

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Sturdy Dwight Sloan, a right hander with a baffling change of pace and marvelous control, pitched the Arkansas Razorbacks to a 28 to 7 football victory over Tulsa university today.

The Razorbacks came back from a 7 to 0 deficit at the end of the first period to score two touchdowns in the second quarter and two more in the third.

It was this superiority on pass defense which spelled the difference between the two teams. On the ground both teams were virtually helpless. Arkansas passed forty-one times, with twenty-two completions. Tulsa passed thirty-one times completing ten.

Navy B Team Demonstrates Army Attack

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Navy B squad players donned Army football uniforms complete with gold helmets today and ran through Army passing plays so the varsity team could see the attack it will meet in Philadelphia Saturday. Coach Hank Hardwick opened the long drill to visitors for the first time in weeks.

The B squad scored a 22 to 21 victory over Temple university B squad in the morning, then changed to Army clothes to play stalking horse for the regulars. After giving each Navy varsity team a chance to play against the Army attack, the B squad tried to break up the varsity's own plays.

Much of the time was spent on practicing Navy's own aerial attack, but Hardwick, afraid to lose a regular through injury in practice, told the B not to tackle.

Irwin F. Fike, 195, Normal, Ill., left end; Frank C. Lynch Jr., 220, Kansas City, Mo., left tackle; Heber Player, 198, Long Beach, Cal., left guard; Alfred B. Wallace, 195, Gulfport, Miss., center; Raymond F. Dubois, 175, Naugatuck, Conn., right guard; Kenneth B. Hysong, 208, Los Angeles, Cal., right tackle; Lucien C. Powell, 170, Forester, Ark., right end; Arthur Franks Jr., 166, Harrisburg, Ill., quarter back; Lemuel D. Cooke, 170, Hernando, Miss., left half; Emmett W. Wood, 170, Wilkensburg, Pa., right half, and Robert J. Antrim, 185, Peru, Ind., full back.

ARMY SQUAD LEAVES.

The cadets will be at full strength. The lineup today had Sullivan and Rogner at ends; Isbell and Stella, tackles; Little and Skaer, guards; Hartline, center; Ryan, quarter back; Wilson and Long, half backs, and Schwenk, full back. This is expected to be the starting combination on Saturday.

A huge rally was held in the mess hall last night at supper and impromptu demonstrations were held throughout today.

Missouri and Kansas Play Scoreless Tie

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Kansas, which surprised the Big Six football conference with victories, and Missouri, which surprised it with defeats, fought to a scoreless tie here today, after the Tigers had missed a last-minute victory by 12 inches.

Twenty-two thousand homecoming fans, sensing drama after three quarters in which tackling was so hard that fumbles were frequent, saw Full Back Stanley Mondala take the ball on fourth down at the Kansas 1 yard line, throw himself at the Jayhawk forwards, but miss a touchdown by a foot. Mondala had been rushed in to kick from the 15 yard line. His attempt failed.

WASHINGTON U. WINS.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Washington university, defeated in six of nine previous games, deprived St. Louis university of a share of the Missouri Valley conference football title today by winning from the Billikens, 6 to 0. St. Louis, with seven victories in nine contests, was a decided favorite. A victory would have brought about a tie with Tulsa university for the championship.

Near the end of the first period Washington began a sustained drive from its own 47 yard mark and scored the only touchdown early in the second quarter. Bukant went over from the two yard line. Jack Warner's attempted place kick was blocked.

BRADLEY WHIPS WESLEYAN, 7-0, ON PANISH'S RUN

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Ted Panish, junior half back from Morris, Ill., returned a punt forty-three yards for a touchdown in the second period to give Bradley Tech a 7 to 0 victory over Illinois Wesleyan today in the thirty-sixth meeting of the two schools.

The triumph not only ended a string of six successive victories for Wesleyan over Tech but gave Bradley a share of the Little Nineteen conference championship. Both Illinois college and Bradley closed their conference seasons with five victories, no losses and no ties.

Bradley stopped Wesleyan near the goal line three times in the first period. Early in the second Panish took Kaska's punt on the Wesleyan 43 yard line and sped down the sideline for the only touchdown of the game. Bob Theus, substitute quarter back, dropkicked the extra point.

BROWN DEFEATS RUTGERS, 7-6, ON KICKOFF RETURN

Foster Races 95 Yards for Victory.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Victory-starved by Colgate for the last eight Thanksgiving days, Brown's Bears changed their diet this year and today defeated Rutgers, 7 to 6, for their first Thanksgiving football triumph since 1928.

While 10,000 sat under sunny skies, the home forces waged an aggressive battle all the way, but the late comers missed Frank Foster's all-important ninety-five yard scoring runback of the opening kickoff that meant success for Brown.

Runs Down Sideline.

Tranavitch Scores.

Rutgers fought back brilliantly and within three minutes Paul Harvey blocked an attempted punt by Hall Hilyard. Simpkins thereupon recovered for Rutgers on the Brown 34, and the Scarlet swiftly scored.

CATHOLIC U. WINS, 27-14.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Full Back Rocco Pirro of Catholic university punctured the University of South Carolina's line almost at will today and the result was a 27 to 14 victory for the Washington eleven.

Time and again Pirro cracked the lighter South Carolina line for gains, setting the ball up for touchdowns. He himself went over the goal once. Other Catholic touchdowns were made by Calabrese, Guyon, and Munhall.

MOUNT ST. MARY'S WINS, 5-0.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mount St. Mary's college capitalized today on those two little-used scoring measures, the safety and the field goal, to defeat Davis and Elkins college, 5 to 0.

DETROIT LOSES, 14-7.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Duquesne university came from behind with two touchdown drives in the second half today to beat the University of Detroit, 14 to 7. The winning score resulted from some fine plunging by Bill Karrs, Duquesne full back.

WEST VIRGINIA WINS, 26-0.

Morgantown, W. Va., Nov. 25.—(AP)—West Virginia's Mountaineers resorted to trick plays on a soggy field to rout a flashy but inconsistent George Washington team, 26 to 0, today.

Last Will and Testament—3.

If a person making a will does not dispose of personal effects such as clothing, furniture, paintings, automobiles, books, jewelry, and heirlooms, they become part of the general estate and may have to be sold in liquidation.

If real estate is given outright it does not pass through the executor's hands. The will, in this case, becomes a deed. The will should state whether inheritance and estate taxes are to be paid out of the general estate or deducted from the individual legacies.

Because of the high rates of taxation on inheritances many persons in their closing years of life accumulate enough cash or quickly saleable goods to provide for payment of the taxes without resorting to forced sale of part of the estate at sacrifice prices.

Powers granted to the executor vary greatly, according to the desires of the testator. The executor may be allowed the right to join in the agreement for a merger, readjustment, exchange, or consolidation of securities affecting the estate. He may be given specific authority to sell, lease, and mortgage real estate, or he may be instructed to continue or liquidate an estate.

1934	1,198,000	156,000	.30

Per share figures in the table above are based on 668,100 shares in 1936 and 485,626 shares in prior years, after adjustment to reflect the 100 per cent stock dividend in March, 1937. Capitalization was increased further by expansion and public offering of 120,000 shares in June to retire preferred stock, pay bank loans, and provide working capital. There is no funded debt.

Current assets were $2,091,000 and current liabilities were $843,000 on June 30, 1937.

Dividends of 25 cents quarterly are being paid on the present stock. This year's payments total $1.60 a share, including $1.10 before the stock increase, compared with $1 in 1936, 50 cents in 1935, and nothing in 1934.

The stock should be considered somewhat speculative.

Buying Stock.

Investors' Guide: Is it possible at all times to purchase stock in all companies and corporations listed on the different stock exchanges?—S. J.

Answer: A listed security may be purchased through a broker or bank at almost any time when the exchange on which it is listed is open. The only exceptions are the rare times when there is none of the stock available and offered for sale by present owners.

MEXICO OFFERS WORKERS CHANCE TO RUN RAILWAYS

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The National Railway Workers syndicate today was confronted with a proposal from President Lazaro Cardenas that it take over and operate Mexico's national railway system.

Cardenas, who decreed expropriation of the nation's 7,114 miles of railroads last June as part of his socialization program, made a condition that the workers pay the government 14,000,000 pesos ($3,780,000) a year to be expended for equipment, pay taxes and debts.

The syndicate's secretary, General Juan Gutierrez, opposed the suggested payment as "too large until we see how we get along." He also opposed Cardenas' suggestion that the federal government have the right to intervene in the operation of the lines.

WHEAT FALLS 2 TO 3 CENTS IN FOREIGN TRADE

Quality of Argentine Crop Reported Fine.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Wheat futures were pushed down 3 to 4 cents at one time on the Winnipeg Grain exchange today on reports of unexpected excellent quality of new crop Argentine wheat, but minor rallies reduced the losses and at the close prices were 2⅛ to 3⅛ cents lower. In the four days' trading since Monday's opening prices have fallen 6 to 9 cents. November finished at $1.09¼; December, $1.07⅝; May, $1.07½, and July, $1.03⅛.

November wheat cracked to a new seasonal low level as did all flax futures, although trading was not heavy owing to the holiday in the United States. Export business was confined to odd loads.

Prices Break at Opening.

Prices eased from the start, dropping nearly 3 cents in the first hour on sales by local traders, eastern and seaboard firms. November and December dropped more than 4 cents before the rally.

Excellent quality of first returns of new crop wheat in northern Argentina, forecasts of clear weather and sharply lower Buenos Aires quotations were principal market factors at Winnipeg and Liverpool.

Buenos Aires was 2 to 3⅜ cents lower, a decline of 5 to 6 cents since the market opened yesterday. Liverpool closed about 3 cents lower. Mill demand was light.

Cash Prices Decline.

Cash prices dipped sharply due to heavier offerings and lull in demand. No. 1 northern cash wheat slumped 3 cents in early trading but rallied a cent near the close.

Rye futures lost 2 to 2⅛ cents a bushel and flax was down 2 to 4 cents. Liquidation was credited to speculative accounts. Oats declined 1 to 2 cents a bushel in late trading.

INT'L HARVESTER $1,000,000 PLANT ADDITION BEGUN

Work has been started on a million dollar addition to the International Harvester company's tractor works at 2600 West 31st boulevard, which company officials said will make the plant one of the world's largest tractor manufacturing establishments. Completion is set for May 1, 1938.

The new building will be used entirely for the production of International Harvester's line of crawler type tractors as distinguished from the wheel type. The tractors are used in both agriculture and industry. Five models will be produced, tinue to be made in the Milwaukee plant.

The new building is one story, with brick and steel walls, and will add 240,000 square feet of floor space, bringing the total floor space of the plant to about 1,400,000 square feet.

FACTORY PAYS BONUS AS SLUMP CUTS WORK WEEK

Decatur, Ill., Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Approximately $70,000 in supplemental pay was distributed to the 600 employés at the Decatur plant of the Mueller company, plumbing fixture makers, today under the concern's profit sharing plan. At the same time Adolph Mueller, president, announced that the factory work week would be cut to four days beginning Monday because of a slump in business.

The bonus was made possible because of favorable earnings during the first half of the year, Mueller said. Employés who had been with the firm for more than a year received three weeks' extra pay. Employés with less service were given smaller amounts. A minimum of $15 was paid each employé.

October Whisky Output a Third of Year Before

Washington, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—Distillers produced 7,877,273 gallons of whisky in October as compared with 20,298,951 gallons in October a year ago, the alcohol tax unit of the treasury reported today.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF NEW YORK CHILDREN SEE ANNUAL PARADE OF FLOATS—This air filled monster flying over Columbus Circle was one of the most spectacular in the 13th annual Thanksgiving day parade sponsored by a department store. Police estimated that more than a million people stood along the sidewalks to see the spectacle. The parade is put on to call attention to the approaching Christmas season. (Story on page 3.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

WIDOW QUIZZED FOR CLEWS IN ASSASSINATION OF HUSBAND—Mrs. Selina Blacker of Kokomo, Ind., at the Summit police station yesterday after her husband, Fred, a movie operator who was using the name of James Brown, had been shot to death in Summit. One of three gunmen held the wife while a second killed Blacker. Labor union troubles originating in Kokomo were blamed for the killing. (Story on page 7.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

AUTO PINNED AGAINST "L" PLATFORM BY TRAIN—Wreckage of car after it had been crushed by a Rapid Transit Lines train at Kedzie and Eastwood avenues. The driver, his wife, and their child were cut, and two other passengers in the auto received more severe injuries. The auto was southbound, the train westbound. (Story on page 1.)

MOTHER SENDS HOLIDAY DINNER 1,200 MILES—John Weston in Newark, N. J., receiving a pie baked in Monticello, Minn., and transported by plane in special heater to keep it warm. The stewardess is Ruth Delmore.
